INTRODUCTION.

The following pages present the results of an investigation begun some time ago and aiming, primarily, to discover the exact values of the accusative and dative cases after the preposition on. A dissertation by A. Harstrick, Untersuchung über die Präpositionen bei Alfred dem Grossen, Kiel, 1890, says on this point: "Gewöhnlich steht nach Verben der Bewegung on mit dem Akkusativ, nach Verben der Ruhe on mit dem Dativ. Dass diese Regel jedoch Ausnahmen hat, zeigen die folgenden Beispiele," and gives examples of on—dat. after faran, gebringan, afeallan, but without further comment; and under the category of time (p. 35) "Auch mit dem Akkusativ wird on verbunden," and gives examples of on tid from Bede and the Cura Pastoralis. This is hardly satisfactory. In order to set forth the principles governing this apparent irregularity in Ags. syntax the division under cases is in this paper made to supersede the division into categories of meaning.

The range of texts studied is, it is believed, wide enough to make generalisation safe. They are all in prose, and may all, with the exception of Bede, be counted as West-Saxon monuments. They are:

C. P. King Alfred's West-Saxon Version of Gregory's Pastoral Care. Ed. by Henry Sweet for the E. E. T. S. London, 1871-2.

O. King Alfred's Orosius. Ed. by Henry Sweet for the E. E. T. S. London, 1883.

Bo. King Alfred's Anglo-Saxon Version of Boethius De Consolatione Philosophiæ. Ed. by Rev. Samuel Fox. Bohn's Antiquarian Library, London, 1864. (The citations from Bo. are, however, from Prof. Bright's copy of the Cott. MS., and (B) = Fox's print of the Bodl. MS. is given only where the Cott. MS. fails or (B) presents a different reading.)

B. The Old English Version of Bede's Ecclesiastical History of the English People. Ed. by Thomas Miller for the E. E. T. S. 1890. (Latin citations from Bede are from Bede's Historia Ecclesiastica Gentis Anglorum, ed. Alfred Holder, 2. Ausgabe, Freiburg i. B.).

Chron. The Anglo-Saxon Chronicle (six texts parallel). Ed. by B. Thorpe. London, 1861. (Rolls Series.) (The different MSS. are here indicated by the letters (a) = C. C. C. C., (b) = Cott. Tib. A. VI., (c) = Cott. Tib. B. I., (d) = Cott. Tib. B. IV., (e) = Bodl. Laud 636, (f) = Cott. Domitian A. VIII.)

S. C. The Homilies of the Anglo-Saxon Church: The first part, containing the Sermones Catholici, or Homilies of Ælfric. Ed. by B. Thorpe. Vol. I. London, printed for the Ælfric Society, 1844.

Æ. Gr. Ælfric's Grammatik und Glossar. Herausg. von Julius Zupitza, Berlin, 1880.

Letters in ( ) after page and line numbering refer to different MSS. of the text from which the citation is made.

Bede being the only one of these texts that holds very closely to a Latin original, the Ags. has been compared with the Latin throughout for this text. Little was found, however, to show dependence of the Ags. prepositional idiom on the Latin. The Latin originals given with the examples from Bede will show this.

A word as to the manner of treatment, which may at first sight seem irregular. As this is a study in case-values, the acc. is in each division treated separately from the dat. and instr., even where the value of the preposition is the same for both. In and on are considered together, likewise for and fore, and a summary of differences appended in each case. A general discussion of the use of acc. and dat. after in, on is prefixed. The instr., a fragmentary case, is considered together with the dat. In, on in time relations is treated apart, in order to give a better view of the relation of acc. to dat. in phrases of time; and further because the use of the acc. here seems to have no connection with the construction in, on + acc. after verbs of motion.

Grateful acknowledgment is here made to Prof. Bright for the loan of his copy of the Cott. MS. of the Boethius, and for general guidance and assistance throughout. Harstrick's dissertation gives the meaning of in, on and to exhaustively for Alfredian texts, but pays little attention to the value of cases. Miller's discussion of on and in (Bede, Introd. xxxiii. ff.) has been relied on for texts not read for this work.

[This work was done in 1895, before I had had an opportunity to consult Dr. Wülfing's Die Syntax in den Werken Alfreds des Grossen. The part dealing with Prepositions has not yet appeared; Vol. I. contains the discussion of cases in other than prepositional constructions. I have made references to his book in cases where he has touched on matters discussed in this study.]

IN AND ON.

The prepositions in and on present peculiar difficulties in Ags. syntax. Originally distinct in form and meaning, they became in course of time so confused in meaning that in was dropped, on being felt to have the same value. This is the state of things in W. S. prose. Alfred shows in occasionally, but never with distinction in meaning or use between in and on. In vol. I. of Ælfric's Homilies there is a single instance of the preposition in: in ealra worulda woruld 618. 35,—a liturgical form, in which the scribe may very well have been under the influence of the Latin.

The relation, chronological and dialectical, of in to on in Ags. has been discussed by Miller in the Introduction to his edition of Bede, pp. xxxiii–xliv. He shows that while early documents use both in and on, with distinction of meaning, the later standard prose, the W. S. of Alfred and of Ælfric and Wulfstan, uses almost exclusively on, and Mercian tends to a similar generalization of in. The use of in in the Tanner MS. of Bede, which Miller holds to be the most authoritative text, is one of the arguments employed by him to establish the Mercian character of the Bede.

Of the monuments studied for this work, Bede alone (MSS. T. and C.) presents abundant examples of in. The citations from Bede are from MS. T. unless otherwise indicated.

In and on are followed by the acc., dat., and instr. cases. The categories for the acc. are as a rule (except in time phrases) quite distinct from those for the dat. and instr. The rule of Latin syntax regarding the acc. and ablative cases after in holds for the acc. and dat. (or instr.) after in and on in Ags. But the question arises, Which are verbs of motion, and which are not? Should settan, lecgan, for instance, or sincan, besencan, take the acc. or the dat. of place after on, in? The answer is different for different languages, for different periods or dialects of the same language. The works read for this investigation show a fairly regular gradation, from C. P. and O., which imply the idea of motion in some verbs in which it is lost to us, through the Bede, which shows uncertainty—sometimes acc. and sometimes dat.—after 'certain' verbs, to Ælfric, who has to a great extent lost the feeling for the acc. relation, and employs the dat. after a number of verbs that show only the acc. in Alfredian texts. The following are the chief points to be noted:

1. gebringan always takes the dat. of place after on:

... wið ðone ilcan Samuel ðe hine ær on ðam rice gebrohte. C. P. 35. 17.
 ... ðæt mon Johannes ðone apostol gebrohte on Bothmose ðam iglande, on wræcsiðe from oðrum cristenum monnum. O. 264. 11.

ponne þincð him þ he sie on carcerne gebroht, oððe on racentum. Bo. 186. 15. (B).

... & him wið gefuhton, & gebrohton hie on fullum fleame. Chron. 188. 10 (abcd).

and se clæne hwæte bið gebroht on Godes berne; þæt is, þæt ða rihtwisan beoð gebrohte to pam ecan life. S. C. 526. 30.

The only two instances found in which this rule does not hold are:

Ða ongan he smeagan & leornigan on him selfum hu he þ rice ðam unrightwisan cyninge aferran mihte, & on ryhtgeleafulla and on rihtwisra anwald gebrigan. Bo. 2. 19 (B)—on the first page of the text in Fox, which also contains the only two examples of in as preposition in Bo. Observe also that the phrase is on anwald (cf. in—on + acc. I. 1. a.), which may perhaps be a stereotyped form.

Se bið þin eage, seðe þe wisdom tæcð, and on rihtne weg þe gebrincð. S. C. 274. 5.

gebringan to is not found except in the Chronicle—219. 9. (de.), state to which—and in Ælfric, where it occurs frequently, being followed by personal pronoun (to me 62. 34.), noun of place (to ðam temple 506. 10.) and noun of condition (to heofonlicum geðincðum 548. 8.).

2. C. P. and O. show on + acc. of end of motion after verbs which, according to our modern feeling, call rather for the dat.:

C. P. plantian 443. 1, sæwan 357. 17, secean 3. 11, wealwian 289. 6.

O. licgan (of bodies of water that extend into the land, especially in the Voyages of Ohthere and Wulfstan, where in, up in, adverbial, is commonly prefixed to on) 17. 21, 19. 21 etc.

3. Bede shows both in, on + acc. and in, on + dat. after settan, gesettan, where C. P. (with one exception, gesettan 253. 16), O., and Bo. show only on + acc.:

Acc. in:

ðæt Cristes mæl genom & in ðone seað sette (foveæ imposuerit) 154. 26.
 ... & swa (scl. ðone lichoman) in ða cyste gesettað (reponite in arca) 376. 20. So 204. 28, 322. 34, 320. 2.

on:

forðon seo seolfe stow on ofer ðæs streames was geseted (super ripam situs) 434. 29. So 402. 17, 130. 14, 132. 21.

Dat. in:

seðe in fyre geseted bið & beornan ne conn 82. 24. So 106. 4, 6, 232. 23, 406. 24.

on:

. . . Lundenceaster, on ofere geseted ðæs foresprecenan streames (super ripam posita) 104. 16. So 322. 7, 360. 28, 342. 27.

Ælfric shows on + acc. after hyht settan (see 5), otherwise on + dat.: S. C. 50. 21, 74. 32, 476. 26. One exception is noted in S. C., settan on + acc., of person, and after predicate of hostile feeling:

Eac ðone rihtwisan Jacobum hi ascufon of ðæm temple, and acwealdon, and elhtwysse on ða oðre apostolas setton 402. 18.

4. Ælfric uses on + dat. (only, or interchanging with on + acc.) after a number of verbs which in earlier monuments take regularly on + acc.:

Ðaða he (i. e. Pharao) com on middan dære sæ, þa wæs þæt Godes folc up-agan. S. C. 312. 4. So 134. 14, 144. 10, Æ. Gr. 3. 7. The same rarely in Orosius: 150. 13, 282. 29. Cuman on + acc. rarely: on middangeard S. C. 32. 30.

se bið untrum, seðe on leahtrum fylð. S. C. 240. 10. So 22. 35. C. P. shows three times afeallan on + dat. of state into which (on scyldum 21. 13, 437. 3, on synne 123. 12) but feallan, gefeallan, befeallan only with acc. after on.

befeallan (exceptional; on + acc. is the regular construction after this verb for Ælfric as for Alfred; cf. in — on + acc. I. I. a.):

we sceolon carfullice hogian, gif we a-war, purh deofles syr wunge, on twam frecednyssum samod befeallað, þæt we symle ðone maran gylt forfeon purh utfære þæs læssan. S. C. 484. 7. So Æ. Gr. 220. 11, 15, 121. 8.

onfon:

Min cild, Maxime, gehely min; onfoh me on ðinum geleafan; næs ic ðe derigende on ænigum ðingum. S. C. 414. 15.

Ælfric shows on + acc. once after this verb—on hyre innoð S. C. 200. 28.

Bede shows both in + acc. and in + dat. after this verb, with no discernible difference in meaning: in + acc. 164. 25 (in onwald), 284. 23, 300. 28, 344. 33; in + dat. 372. 33, 406. 15, 432. 12; on + acc. only in the phrase on anweald 120. 3, 4, 124. 12.

forðan þe Godes lufu is agoten on urum heortum þurh ðone Halgan Gast, se ðe us is forgifen S. C. 554. 28.

Bede shows in + dat. after geotan : . . . ðæs flores, in ðæm ðæt wæter his bana ðweales goten wæs 184. 16. But C. P. and O. show only on + acc. after geotan (ageotan does not appear) : C. P. 283. 6, 373. 15, 16, 459. 14 ; O. 258. 16.

ahebban :

Ne com he no to ðy þæt he wære on mærlicum cynesette ahafen, ac þæt he wære mid hospe on rode hengene genægloed. S. C. 82. 24. So 550. 8, 596. 20. C. P. shows only on + acc. : 245. 16, 423. 7.

hreosan :

Hire bearn on deaðe hreosað. S. C. 410. 13. C. P. on + acc. : 457. 9.

(ge)lecgan :

Se Ælmihtiga Godes Sunu, ðe heofenas befon ne mihte, wæs geled on nearuwe binne. S. C. 34. 31. So 30. 13, 86. 24, 584. 16.

C. P. on + acc. only : 219. 5, 343. 20, 21.

sceofan :

Hwæt ða, Egeas hine gebealh, and het sceofan þone apostol on sweartum cwearterne. S. C. 590. 34. So asceofan : 564. 8.

besencan :

He mihte mid anum worde besencan ðone deofol on þære deopan nywelnysse. S. C. 174. 24. So 28. 14, 328. 21, 330. 26, 514. 18.

C. P. has on + acc. 233. 18 ; O. 172. 10, undetermined. O. shows only on + acc. after besincan : 88. 14, 152. 10, 160. 30, etc.

Bede has in + acc. 90. 27 ; in + dat. 150. 17.

Ælfric shows on + acc. once : on forwyrd. S. C. 256. 20.

aweorpan : (exceptional ; on + acc. the usual construction in Ælfric : on weallendne ele 574. 9, on ða yttran ðeostru 130. 32, 132. 8, 530. 21 ; or into + dat.) :

Socrates, se ðe ealle his æhta behwyrfd e wið anum gyldenem wegge, and syððan awearp ðone weg on widre sæ, þæt seo gitsung ðære æhta his willan ne hremde. S. C. 394. 13.

weorpan in C. P. and beweorpan in O. (aweorpan does not appear) admit only the acc. after on : C. P. 71. 22, 339. 14 ; O. 76. 32.

Bede shows weorpan in, on, + acc. : Ða genom se engel sona ðone mon ; wearp eft in ðæt fyr 216. 2. So 416. 25, 33.

Ða gegreopon ða unclænan gastas ænne of ðam monnum . . . & wurpon swa beornende on hine 214. 32.

From 2, 3, and 4, it appears that the feeling for the value of the accusative after on, in with verbs of motion, strong in C. P. and O., unimpaired in Bo., is much confused in the language of the Bede with that of on, in, + dat., and has in Ælfric to a great extent fallen out of use. The whole number of instances in the first volume of Ælfric's Homilies is 49, the number of the verbs that take the construction is 23; of this 49, five nouns cover 17 instances, and three verbs—becuman (4), asendan (6), befeallan (7), afford 17 instances. It seems not improbable that on + acc. is retained from older usage for archaic or religious value in some phrases, as modern English retains many antiquated phrases for the same purpose. So in speaking of Christ's conception, on innoð (onfon, becuman) is a fixed phrase: S. C. 194. 8, 200. 19, 23, 28; þæs heofonlican Æðelinges to-cyme on hire innoð. 460. 6. Befeallan, followed by on + acc. of moral condition or future state, occurs 8 times, by on + dat. in the same sense once; the acc. is here perhaps a relic of an earlier religious style.

C. P., O., and Bo. show, outside of gebringan, very few cases of on + dat. of end of motion. C. P.: gedufan (on scyldum) 439. 8, 437. 33; gecuman (on ðære eorðan) 133. 2; afeallan 21. 13, 123. 12, 437. 3. O.: cuman (on færelte) 150. 13, (on his hierede) 282. 29; feolan (on fleame) 186. 25. Bo.: gecuman (on ælcre ædre) 152. 1.

5. A number of verbs meaning to believe (in), rejoice (in), trust (in), take sometimes the acc., sometimes the dat., after in or on; and some of them take also the dat. or the gen. without preposition, of that believed or trusted in. These verbs are:

gelyfan: takes on + acc., on + dat., gen., and dat.

on + acc.:

... ðæm ... ðe wel on hine gelifden under lyfte. C. P. 467. 30.

... ða ðe on Crist gelyfdon (in Christum credentes). B. 46. 30 (Ca.)

Sume hi gelyfdon on ða sunnan, sume on ðone monan, sume on fyr, and on manega oðre gesceafta. S. C. 366. 28.

on + dat.:

þu Ælmihtiga God, on ðam ðe Abraham gelyfde, and Isaac, and Jacob. S. C. 464. 30 is the only instance found. Bede shows once geleafan habban in + dat.: ðæt he in ðissum hæfde fæstne geleafan & onwalhne (in hoc habere fidem, i. e. in Oswald's relic). B. 192. 12.

peah his (i. e. this doctrine) dysige men ne gelefen. Bo. 196. 29.

forðan ðe hi noldon æt fruman gelyfan his æristes of deaðe, ðaða hit him egcydd wæs. S. C. 300. 25.

Hwæt þa menn ðe pysum leasungum gelefdon, ðeah wisston þæt his mid þam drycraefte ne mihte ðara manna Modon wendan. Bo. 196. 8 (B).* And heo (i. e. Maria) his (i. e. Gabrieleles) wordum gelyfde, and swa mid þam cilde wearð. S. C. 460. 6.

In Ælfric (who alone furnishes a sufficient number of examples to render generalization safe) there are three distinct constructions with gelyfan (cf. Wulfing, §§ 14, 72. b and 103) :

on + acc. of the divinity, the object of religious worship :

On God S. C. 62. 18, 54. 8, 26. 18, on ðone soðan God 70. 32, on ða Halgan Drynnyse and on soð Annyse 134. 4, 292. 20, on me 190. 26, on deade entas 366. 21, etc. (on ðam 464. 30 is the only exception).

dat. of the utterance to which credence is given :

his wordum 24. 26, 460. 6, þam wordum 202. 22, minum wordum 202. 6, his behatum 224. 21.

gen. of the fact, the point of faith :

his æristes 300. 25, Cristes æristes 222. 2, his (i. e. the miracle) 190. 23.

gefeon :

on + acc. :

Ic eom suiðe gefeonde on Dryhten, ðætte . . . C. P. 207. 18 (Hatt).
 Ða wundredon ealle menn & on dæt gefegon, hwylc wundor ðær hælo purh Drihtnes gife æteawde & geworden wæs (gaudentibus only) B. 272. 3.

in, on + dat. :

swa hit nu swiður gefihð on his synnum C. P. 417. 2.
 Ic eom suiðe gefeonde on Dryhtne C. P. 206. 18 (Cott).
 in ðæs Drihtnes ðæ:m ecean rice gefeoð eal eorðe (in cuius regno perpetuo exultet terra) B. 480. 17 (C). & hie in ðæm (i. e. the miracle of healing) ealle blissedon & gefegon (congaudentibus only) B. 380. 20.

& (scl. hie) his gefægene wærum Chron. 148. 9 (abcde).
 & hie ðæs (ac. ; his b.) gefægene wærun Chron. 126. 1 (abc).
fægnian takes regularly the gen. in Bo. ; xvi. 4 (B), 40. 18, 58. 9 (B), 68. 16,—and gen. or on + dat. in Ælfric : his tocyms S. C. 560. 33, mines forðsiðes 88. 2 ; on ðam wyrstan ðingum 408. 4, on his gesundfulnyse 584. 6.

From the instances of gefeon on + acc. given above—the only two found, and one of these represented by on + dat. in another MS.—it is evident that the construction is exceptional.

in, on + acc. :

Osweo se cyning mid Alhfriðe his sunu—wæs getreowende in Cristes fultum—mid medmicle weorode him togenes cwom (Christo duce confisus) B. 236. 5. So : in godcundne fultom (in divinum . . . auxilium) B. 118. 7. ic getreowige on ðine geornfulnessse B. 2. 5 (Ca). So : on godcundne fultom (in divinum . . . auxilium) B. 48. 22 (Ca.).

on + dat. :

Nellað ge getruwian on ealdormannum, ne on manna bearnum, on ðam nis nan hæl S. C. 410. 16.

More often the simple verb truwian in Ælfric: Ne truwige nan man be ælmesdædum oððe on gebedum, buton ðære foresædan lufe S. C. 54. 12. So : on ðinum gold-hordum 424. 27.

C. P. shows fortruwian (on cræftum) once, 463. 7.

From the examples it appears that Bede uses the acc., Ælfric the dat., after the preposition with (ge)treowian.

wynsumian :

in + acc. :

ond ealra heora heortan & lichoman wynsumedon in ðone lifgendan God (exultaverunt in deum vivum). B. 304. 4.

No other construction observed with wynsumian.

hiht habban :

on + acc. :

spem in alium nunquam habui, præter in te, deus Israel, næfde ic nænne hiht on oðerne næfre, buton on ðe, Israhela god. Æ. Gr. 270. 11.

hiht besettan :

on + acc. :

peah-hwæðere ne sceole we urne hiht on læce-wyrtum besettan, ac on ðone Ælmihtigan Scyppend, pe ðam wyrtum ðone cræft forgeaf. S. C. 476. 7.

Mid þam is geswutelod pæt cristene men ne sceolon heora hiht besettan on woroldlice gestreon, ac on Gode anum. S. C. 326. 30. So : on his goldhord 326. 31.

on + dat. :

Examples just given, S. C. 326. 30, 476. 7. Ic tæhte ðam rican, pæt hi ne onhofon hi, ne heora hiht on leasum welan ne besetton, ac on Gode anum. S. C. 378. 19. So : on ðam eorðlicum welan 204. 10. on pissum life 174. 14.

hiht besettan is evidently very uncertain of its regimen. Ælfric hesitates, apparently, between on + acc. after the analogy of gelyfan, and his general tendency to use the dat. for older acc. after on.

Several other verbs meaning to delight (in) and the like take in, on + dat. or instr., but do not appear with on + acc. These are: bliðsian or blissian, efenblissian, ceahhetan, gladian, gelustfullian, wuldrian.

bliðsian, blissian :

he sceal . . . blissian on ðæm ecum gefean C. P. 395. 22.

Bliðsa, cniht, on ðinum gioguðhæde C. P. 385. 33.

Ond he blissade in ðon, ðæt he oð ðæt in lichoman gehealden wæs, oð ðæt he geseah . . . B. 474. 17 (C.). So: on ðon B. 426. 33. Ic geseah . . . ða awyrigedan sceoccan blissigende on eowerum forwyrde S. C. 68. 1. So: on Gode S. C. 422. 19, on ofer-æte 530. 32, on his weldædum 562. 6, on yfeldædum 408. 4, on ðam behate 74. 20, on heora ægðrum (i. e. Paule and Stephane) 52. 8.

Ic wat þæt ðis Iudeisce folc micclum blissigan wile mines deaðes S. C. 86. 32.

efenblissian :

efenblissiendre Breotone in his (i. e. Cristes) geleafan (congratulate in fide eius) B. 480. 18 (C.).

ceahhetan :

þa geseao ic mænigo þa wergra gasta v. manna saula grornende & heofende teon & lædan on midde þa peostra, & heo on ðon swiðe blissedon & ceahheton. B. 426. 33.

gladian :

þær nis Paulus gescynd purh Stephane slege, ac Stephanus gladað on Paulæs geferrædene. S. C. 52. 8. So: on offrunge ure heortan 584. 18.

gelustfullian :

þis mæden ðe inne læg on deaðe geswefod, getacnað þære synfullan sawle deað, ðe gelustfullað on yfelum lustum digellice. S. C. 496. 13.

wuldrian :

Ne scealt ðu on ðe silfum wuldrian, ac, swa swa se apostol cwæð, "Se ðe wuldrige wuldrige on Gode." S. C. 578. 17.

On + dat. with these verbs falls properly under in, on + dat. I. 1. c. On + acc. is the predominating construction with gelyfan, only occasionally represented with other verbs; that it is due to the Latin cannot be proved, nor does there seem to be any good reason for making such an hypothesis.

6. Ælfric in the Grammar shows uncertainty between acc. and dat. after on in describing inflections. Words are said to terminate (befeallan, wendan, awendan, gebigan, all regular according to in, on + acc. I. 6; but also macian (ablativum, etc.), geendian, beon) on sceortne, langne e, a, etc.

pas geendjað on sceortne us: haud secus na elles, cœlitus heofonlice Æ.
Gr. 239. 6. In el productam on langne el synd agene naman masculini 38. 13, etc.

But the regular construction with the dat. also appears, without apparent difference of meaning:

Seo ðridde geendung ys on scortne e. on ðære geendjað manega naman
 34. 10. ðas (i. e. certain letters of the alphabet, in the pronunciation of their names) ongynnað of him sylfum and geendjað on ðam clypjendlicum stafum 6. 9, etc.

The irregular acc. here is due to the Latin; it appears only in the phrases on sceortne e, etc., on langne e, etc.

7. When the preposition does not immediately precede its case, the dat. is used instead of the acc.

Only the personal and relative pronouns appear in this construction. The preposition is sometimes prefixed to the verb, making a compound, sometimes follows the verb; in either case the prepositional value of the particle is impaired, so that the dat. should perhaps be considered a dat. of interest rather than under the regimen of the particle as preposition. Cf. in Latin syntax "verbs compounded with certain prepositions" and followed by the dat. The dat. is here considered to be under the regimen of the preposition, because of its exact correspondence in value to the acc. after the preposition.

C. P.

ðonne him se wiðerwearda gæsð on becom, 183. 24. gif he ne ongiet hu monega costunga ðæs lytegan feondes him on feallað, 161. 18.

Further: 105. 15, 113. 1, 129. 21.

O.

ða becom him Antigones mid firde on, 146. 25.

& ðæm oðrum, Gallienuse, wæron monog folc onwinnende 274. 27 (only instance noted in O. that is not rel. or pers. pronoun).

Further: him 21. 15, 30. 5, 88. 20, 112. 23, 164. 15, 21, 188. 15, 240. 28, 268. 8, 10, 12; hiere 174. 10.

on bestelan, however, takes acc., apparently as direct object of the compound verb: & ða nihtes on ungearwe hi on bestæl (ex improviso adgredi) 47. 34. So: 92. 1.

Bo.

pa ongan se catulus him spiegettan on. 96. 6.

Further: him 36. 29 (B), 210. 11; me 76. 15, 14; ðe (personal) 16. 26 (B), 22. 15 (B).

Chron. shows only ðæron (feohtan 194. 30. (a).) and on adverbial (feohtan 194. 26 (a).).

Ælfric, only three instances observed, all with the verb ablawan: him on ableow S. C. 12. 29, 16. 13, 370. 6.

Bede is here, as elsewhere, at variance with the other texts. The dat. (him) is noted three times:

Ða se cyning him on beseah (rex intuens eum) 228. 16.

Ða fliton him on ða wergan gastas (no Latin) 212. 15.

Fæht him on & wonn Penda se cyning (impugnatus) 192. 3;

but more commonly the acc. appears:

ðanon ðe hi sciphere on becom (barbarorum inruptis timebatur) 46. 7. (Ca).

gif he his honda hiene onsette & hiene bletsian wolde (ei manum imponere) 396. 25.

ðeah ðe his feond hine onsette oðer benda cyn ond eft oðer (ei . . . imponerent) 328. 31.

teah hine ða ferd on (no Lat.) 92. 15.

Ða teah Penda hine fyrd on & here (bello petitus) 168. 20.

Ða ongunnan twa ðeoda Pyhtas norðan & Scottas westan hi onwinnan (very loose from the Latin) 44. 9. (Ca).

. . . ðara ðinga ðe hine mon forewregde & onstælde (no Lat.) 458. 28 (O.).

From the Latin rendered in these instances it is evident that the Ag. owes neither the construction with the dat. nor that with the acc. to the Latin of Bede; nor does the distinction between dat. and acc. depend on the position of on before or after the verb (him on beseah, fliton him on: hine onsette, teah hine . . . on). The poetry shows the same irregularity: Gif monna hwelc mundum sinum Aldre beneoteð, hine on cymeð Æfter þære synne seofonfeald wracn. Gen. 1041. Hine (i. e. Cain) waldend on, Tirfæst metod, tacen sette. Gen. 1043. Gif ðe ænig eorðbuendra Mid wean greteð, ic hine wergeðo on Mine sette & modhete, Longsumne nið. Gen. 1755. He . . . in gefor þa ænlican geatu Neorxnawonges mid nerigende. Gr.-Wlkr. II, 254 ("Vom Jüngsten Tage," l. 63). But also the normal construction: þa ðu, militig god, man geworhtest, & him on dydest oruth & sawul. Gr. Wlkr. II. 244 ("Gloria" l. 55).

Ingan takes obj. acc. of place entered, B. 442. 22; but the preposition is commonly repeated after in(n)gan, and regularly after other in-compounds when the place entered is expressed.

In other words, in has not prepositional (case-connecting) value except when it immediately precedes the case.

The relative particle þe and the pronominal adverb þær are of frequent occurrence with this inversion of the preposition, but prove nothing with regard to case.

a. The verb fon requires separate consideration. Fon, to grasp, lay hold (on), takes on + acc. of that grasped; but onfon to receive takes more often the gen. (like onbyrian, etc.) than the dat., and not infrequently the acc., of that received.

instances of onfon + gen. observed in Bede.

onfon + gen. appears from this to be the preferred construction in W. S., but not in Bede. The uncertainty between gen.
and dat. is perhaps due to the fact that the on of onfon "receive" is not really the preposition, i. e. that onfon is not the inversion of fon on, but an inseparable compound, regularly followed by the gen. like onbyrian (see Sweet's Reader, 6th edition, p. lxxxix), and that this verb is then confused with the proper inversion of fon on, which takes the dat. like on winnan, etc.

For further variant or uncertain usage of acc. and dat. after on, in, see below, in, on + acc. I. 5 and in, on in time-phrases.

IN, ON, WITH THE ACCUSATIVE CASE.

I. Of place, after verbs of motion.

1. in, on + acc. of that which receives, contains:

he lædde ða allðeodgan ærenddracan on his maðmhus. C. P. 39. 3.

Seo cwen het ða ðam cyninge ðæt heafod of aceorfan, & beweorpan on anne cylle. O. 76. 32.

Ac peah hi seldum hwonne beswemde weorðen, ðonne sleað hi eft on ða solu & bewealwiað hi ðæran. Bo. 192. 29.

& (scl. hi) sume on fleame (ae.; fleam bc.) bedrifon on ðone wudu ðe is genemned Andredes leage. Chron. 22. 39 (abce).

This construction is comparatively rare in Ælfric, being replaced partly by to, into, and partly by on + dat.—see pp. 3-5. It occurs only after becuman, gan (on hand), geniman, asendan, besettan, stigan—eleven times in S. C.

Bede affords very few instances of on in this sense; in is the regular use, as in modern English.

on:

ðæt hie woldon his ban on niwe cyste gedon (in novo recondita) 374. 22.
eode inn on ðis hus to me twegen geonge men (intraverunt domum hanc) 438. 21.

in:

swa eode he in scip & ferde to Breotone 256. 24.

. . . in ðone cafertun eode ðæs huses 186. 5.

forðon in ðone forecwedenan portic ma ne meahste 106. 5.

MSS. (a) and (e) of the Chronicle show in in this sense:

Her comon Westseaxe in Bretæne . . . in ða stowe ðe is gecueden Cerdices ora 26. 12 (ae).—(bef) have on.

Names of countries, islands, bodies of water, etc., are commonly thus construed in the acc. after in, on, with verbs of motion.

Most of the cases of in + acc. in Orosius (see p. 46) are before proper names of countries.

MS. (a) of the Chron. here again shows in twice where other MSS. have on: 32. 20, 36. 17.

Bede shows in here, hardly ever on.

Names of towns in this construction are rare, and occur only where the notion of containing is plain :

... æfter feowertene dagum, ðes ðe he in Someburh cuom B. 422. 4.

Ða cwom he Theodor biscop to his cirican in Cantwara burg B. 258. 1.

To is the preposition commonly used before names of towns after verbs of motion. But before stowe, stede; fæsten, burg (= stronghold), mynster, etc., both on (in) and to are of frequent occurrence, with distinction of meaning.

a. The same construction may of course be used in a secondary—figurative or non-physical—sense :

forðamðe seo lar hwæthwegnunges eode on his andgit. Bo. xii. 17 (B).

God onsende in ðara broðra mod ðæt heo. . . . B. 374. 19.

ða (i. e. these teachings) ðu togædre gesomna, & on Ongolðeode mod in gewunan asete (apud Anglorum mentes) B. 66. 27. Also with on 292. 20, 24.

ða bearn him on mod his gebroðra gemynd. S. C. 332. 28.

Very often of the state, condition, circumstances entered into :

ðæt hie weorðað besencte on ða ealdan unryhtwisesse ðæs lytegan fiondes. C. P. 233. 18.

ðæt hi befeallað on idelgielp. C. P. 457. 20.

he wæs on swa micle ofermetto astigen, ðæt he . . . O. 264. 8.

þu spænst me on ða mæstan spræce & on ða earfoðestan to gereccanne. Bo. 216. 15.

... wæron heo begen of munuchade in biscophad gecorene. B. 300. 9.

Bede shows on here only in the phrases on anweald, on hand, see below ; otherwise in.

on his stall Bryhtwald ærcebiscop gehalgode Aldwulf to biscope. Chron. 75. 6. (de).

Her forðferde Friðestanus b. Wentanus ; & Byrnstanus wearð geblet-sode on his loh. Chron. 201. 9. (f).

So frequently in MSS. (def) of the Chronicle, but not in the better MSS. (abc). On loh is peculiar to (f).

and þa ðe fyligað pære gytsunge, . . . hi befeallað on mislice costnunga and derigendlice lustas, ðe hi besencað on forwyrd. S. C. 256. 20.

on anweald, on geweald = into the power of, under the control of, are fixed phrases in historical writing :

on geweald—commonly with poss. pronoun :

Chron. onfon 108, 8. (abc), begietan 192. 4. (bcd).

O. gedon 118. 27, underfon 122. 3, belytegian 112. 26, geniedan 196. 26, 122. 33, 82. 17, 70. 31, 28. 29, beðridian 112. 28.

on anwald—commonly with dat. of interest :

O. gedon 52. 28, 62. 3, gesellan 54. 11.

B. onfon 120. 3, 4, 124. 12; in anwald 164. 25.

on hand gan, sellan = surrender, transitive and intransitive resp. The phrase is common in O., B., Chron. and Ælfric. Bede shows here only on, not in.

Similarly the receiving, surrounding body, the including number are construed in the acc. after in, on :

Ælc treow mon sceal . . . weorpan on fyr, & forbærnan. C. P. 339. 14.

& (scl. Nilus) ðonne besince eft on ðæt sand. O. 12. 22.

gif þu nu hæfde micel gold on þe, & þu þonne become on þiofscole, þonne ne wendes þu . . . Bo. 46. 26.

ða tugon heo hine nydinga of ðam mynstre & læddon on ðone here B. 208. 23.

& ðætte he forðon in ða fyrd cwome, ðæt he . . . B. 326. 17.

Some nouns derived from verbs of motion take a complementary phrase in this construction; cyme, for, upastignes etc.

Bede uses in (on) + acc. of that taught after (ge)læran, tyn, apparently with the feeling that the pupil is introduced into the subject :

ðæt he moste heo gelæran in ða gerynu ðæs cristnan geleafan. (fidei Christianæ sacramentis inbui). 308. 21.

Wæs Rædwald . . . in Cent gelæred in ða gerynu Cristes geleafan (sacramentis Christianæ fidei imbutus est) 140. 31.

& heo betweoh halige bec & ciriclicne ðeodscipe in metercraeft & in tungolcraeft & in grammaticraeft tydon & lærdon. (metricæ artis, astronomiæ et arithmeticiæ ecclesiasticæ disciplinam inter sacrorum apicum volumina suis auditoribus contraderent.) 258. 14.

wæs se blaca Heawald hweðere mæ in wisdom haligra gewrita getyd. (sacrarum litterarum erat scientia institutus) 414. 24.

& Scottas lærdon geonge & ealde on regollicne ðeodscipe (inbuebantur præceptoribus Scottis paruuli Anglorum una cum maioribus studiis et obseruatione disciplinæ regularis). 158. 30. (O.)

The regular W. S. for this is on + dat. (see in, on, + dat. I. 7.) which Bede also uses. That the acc. here is not due to the Latin is evident from the Latin correspondences.

2. The object, surface, on or upon which, after verbs of motion, is put in the acc. after on.

In does not occur in this sense;—& sona in bæd gefeol, & grymme sar ongon ðrowian B. 438. 4. was doubtless a case of "into" rather than "on" to the translator.

. . . ða lac . . . ðe mon on ðæt weobud legde C. P. 219. 5.

Oft eac gebyreð ðætte twegen unðeawas hreosað on ænne man. C. P. 457. 9.

For ðære dæde wearð Agustus swa sarig ðæt he oft unwitende slog mid his heafde on ðone wag, ðonne he on his sette sæt. O. 250. 12.

forðan ðe he (i. e. se Wendelsæ) brycð swiðor on ðone suðdæl ðonne he do on ðone norðdæl O. 24. 27.

ðu setst us on ðæt sett ðines sceoppendes. Bo. 24. 2 (B).

swa swa sio nafu bið symle swa gesund, hnæppen þa felga on þæt þe hi hnæppen Bo. 222. 27.

& (scl. he) on his hors hleop & rad ðider he ær mynte (ascendit equum) B. 178. 34.

forðon seo seolfe stowe on ofer ðæs streames wæs gesetted (super ripam) B. 434. 29.

On ða ea hi tugon up hiora scipu oð ðone weald. Chron. 162. 36. (abcdel).

ac hira (scl. scipa) ðær tu sæ on lond wearp. Chron. 176. 42. (abcd).

God Ælmihtig cwyrð, Ne ascytt Sennacherib flan into ðære byrig Hierusalem, ne mid his scylde hi ne gewylt; ac ic geslea ænne wriðan on his nosu, and ænne bridel on his weleras, and ic hine gelæde ongean to his leode S. C. 568. 33.

This construction is comparatively rare outside of C. P. and B. Upon is preferred (see p. 47). But one application of it is very common, viz.:

a. Verbs of motion with hostile intent are followed by on + acc. of the person against whom the action is directed (mod. Engl. upon):

... ðæm ðe ealing gaderað an hine selfne ðæt hefige fenn. C. P. 329. 17.

ðonne bestilð sio slæwð on us. C. P. 283. 3.

& on Ahtene ungearwe becoman, & hie gefliemdon. O. 98. 15.

& woldon ða faran on hergoð on ðæt Cristene folc. Chron. 234. 14. (c).

So regularly in O. and Chron. of the persons or people who are the object of a military expedition; after cuman, becuman, faran, onfaran, fird gelædan, utræsan, bestelan, wendan.

Bede shows on here, never in; although of the five examples noted, four translate Latin in.

(scl. he) in municep ðære byrig on ungearone ðone Osric mid his fyrd becwom. (Osricum . . . erumpens subito cum suis omnibus inparatum . . . delevit.) B. 152. 23.

he rædde on ðone cyning (impetum fecit in regem.) B. 122. 18.

Ælfric makes no distinction with regard to the purpose of the motion; but uses on + acc. of that "upon which," chiefly of persons:

and (scl. hi) ehtnysse on ða oðre apostolas setton. S. C. 402. 18.

se Halga Gast cymð ufen on ðe, and miht ðæs hyhstan ofersceadewað ðe. S. C. 198. 30.

The verbs winnan (C. P. 129. 8), iersian (C. P. 189. 8); feohtan, hergian, winnan, (O.); winnan (Bo. 74. 34 (B.)); feohtan (B. 124. 10); feohtan, herian, gcherian, (Chron.); andian (Ælf. Gr. 249. 13), take on + acc. of person, people or place attacked, or person who is the object of anger:

ðonne he on oðer folc winnan sceal. C. P. 129. 8.

ða gesawan hie Romana ærendracan on hie feohtende mid ðæm burgwarum. O. 92. 10.

he wæs feohtende wið Sciððie, on ane burh, & ðær wearð ofscoten. O. 30. 12.

ða Cwenas hergiað hwilum on ða Norðmen ofer ðone mor, hwilum ða Norðmen on hy. O. 19. 24.

& sona ðæs ðe he on heo feaht, wæron him ealle his fynd gecyðede, þa ðe ær ymb his feorh syredon (venit adversus gentem Occ. Saxonum). B. 124. 10.

& oft hergade on Peohtas & on Stræcled Walas. Chron. 144. 5. (abcde).

. . . & fuhton on ða burg ealne dæg. Chron. 194. 14. (a).

invidio tibi ic andige on ðe. Ælf. Gr. 249. 13.

herian in the Chronicle admits also on + dat. of countries raided—conceived as mere phrase of place: & ða hæðenan on Norðhymbrum hergodon Chron. 101. 34. (de.); on Portlande 234. 39. (c.); on ðæm norðhere 184. 4. (abcd).

These verbs of fighting (except herian) take also wið + acc. The distinction between the two constructions is that on introduces the defensive party, while the use of wið represents rather a regular engagement, presumably on equal footing.

b. Verbs of striking and the like (slean, ofstingan, hræcan, getæsan, atæsan, spiwan, hond settan, ðydan; gefeallan, forðlutan, weorpan) take in, on + acc. of the part affected:

ðonne hræce hio him on ðæt nebb foran. C. P. 43. 15.

ða ðyde Æfner hine mid hindewerde scafte on ðæt smældearme. C. P. 295. 17.

hit (i. e. ðæt mod) bið getæsed (Hatt.; Cott. atæsed) on ðæt ingeðonc. C. P. 297. 18.

& wearp hine mid ðære tungan on þæt neb foran. Bo. 52. 25.

he genedde under ænne elpent ðæt he hiene on ðone nafelan ofstang. O. 156. 11.

ða sette he mid ða swiðran hond him on ðæt heafod & ðus cwæð: (imposuit dextram suam capiti eius). B. 130. 4.

ða gefeoll he semninga on his earm ufan, & ðone swiðe geðræste (repente corrui, brachium contriuit). B. 156. 17.

& (scl. he) forðleat in his ondwilitan & geornlice in his gebede hleoðrade (procidere in faciem). B. 268. 19.

slogon mec ða, oðer in heafod, oðer in fet (percusserunt me, unus in capite et alius in pede). B. 440. 13.

Observe that Bede uses in here only when it is found in the Latin.

c. Fon, to lay hold (on), to take in hand,—almost never of physical objects—takes in, on + acc. of that grasped at, taken in hand:

ðæt unclæne mod swiðe hrædlice fehð on ða ladunga. C. P. 241. 19.

. . . ðætte se mon se þe bispell secgan wolde, ne sceolde fon on to ungelic bispell ðære spræce þe he þonne sprecan wolde. Bo. 166. 20.

ða feng after hire in ða ðegnunge abbudissan Seaxburh hire sweostor (successit in ministerium). B. 318. 33.

we willað nu fon on þone traht pissere rædinge. S. C. 206. 21.

we foð nu gewislicor on ða forman declinunge (i. e. take up the first declension in detail). Ælf. Gr. 21. 15.

C. P. shows the same construction with befon (199. 14, 23, 239. 11) and gripan (41. 6, 53. 6, 63. 7).

Chron. 225. 10. (d.) shows rice in this construction: . . . ðy XIII. geare ðe he on rice feng—which is not found in the other texts, feng to rice being the usual expression. Rice onfon is somewhat more frequent; see p. 11, and To I. 4. fon.

d. Wrecan, which might naturally be expected to have the same regimen as verbs of hostile motion, takes always on + dat. of person on whom vengeance is wreaked. See In, on + dat. I. 6.

e. beseon, locian, take in, on + acc. of person or object looked upon:

ðonne hie besawon on ða besengdan burg & on ða westan. O. 92. 32.

hi ealle lociað mid bæm eagum on þas eorðlican ðincg. Bo. 206. 16.

he locode in ðeosne middangeard (respicere in mundum). B. 212. 19.

& (scl. he) ða unheanlice hine werede, oð he on ðone æðeling locode. Chron. 82. 31. (abcde).

Similarly meldian, secgan, asecan, witan, take on + acc. of person etc., affected by an utterance:

ac ðæm gielpnan bið leofre ðæthe secge on hine selfne gif he hwæt godes wat. C. P. 217. 14.

& ðeah . . . ðyllica bismra on hie selfe asædon. O. 164. 5.

Hwæt godes magon we secgan on þa flæsclican unpeawas? Bo. 110. 24.

þæt an ic wat godes on þa (B.; þam For) æpelo, þæt . . . Bo. 110. 3. (C. has ða, but what precedes is lost.) he nolde meldian on his geferan Bo. 52. 20. (Cf. vulgar English "he wouldn't tell on 'em.")

Bede however shows here in + dat. :

Meahte se cwīde wel beon to him (i. e. Æðelfrið, king of Northumbria) geƿeoded, þe Jacob se heahfæder in Saules hade þæs cƿninges cwæð, þa he his sunu bletsode : Benjamin is risende wulf ; (in personam Saulis dicebat). B. 92. 11.

3. That on which one goes, the path &c., is put in the acc. after in, on.

hit bið wyrse ðæt mon â onginne faran on soðfæstnesse weg, gif mon eft wile ongean cierran & ðæt ilce onfaran (Melius erat eis non cognoscere viam iustitiæ, quam post agnitionem retrorsum converti). C. P. 445. 28.

Donne stæpð se sacerð suiðe tælleaslice on ðone weg. C. P. 77. 19.

& siððan mid eallum his folce on ðære ea gong on ða burg færende wæs. O. 74. 5.

ðat hi on ðone ilcan weg (i. e. through the Red Sea) feran meahtan. O. 38. 32.

eft heo (i. e. seo sunne) secð hire gecynde, & stigð on ða dæglan wecgas wið hire uprynæs. Bo. 38. 26. (B).

Gæð ealle on pone weg þe eow lærað þa foremæran bisna þara godena gumena. Bo. 238. 28.

Bede shows no instance of on, and only one sure instance of in — & he eft forðeode in his weg (pergens itinere suo) B. 180. 21.— The instrumental without preposition is preferred : min latteow mec eft lædde ðy selfan wæge ðe wit ær comon (ipsa, qua venimus, via reduxit) B. 430. 26.

The second instance of on + acc. after gebringan, S. C. 274. 5 (see p. 2) is apparently an example of this rule.

4. Verbs of believing, trusting, rejoicing, take sometimes in, on + acc. of that believed in, rejoiced in. See pp. 5 ff.

5. In, on + acc. is used to express the purpose of an action, or the function to be performed.

ða ða him mon on bismere to gebæd. C. P. 261. 17.

& hine mon scyle on bismere hatan se anscoða. C. P. 45. 8.

ða sende him mon ane blace hacelan angean, him on bismere, for triumpfan. O. 234. 22.

he wolde hi him on fultum geteon. O. 112. 2.

& (scl. hi) ða ilcan studu nales swa swa ær uton togesetton . . . ac in gemynd ðæs wundres in ða cirican setton (in memoriam miraculi) B. 204. 27.

ðæt hie mihtan (scl. sumne dæl his feaxes) heora biddendum freondum syllan, oþpe æteawan in tacen ðæs wundres (in signum miraculi) B. 382. 17.

. . . seo tunge, ðe swa monig halwende word in ðæs scyppendes lof gesette (in laudem conditoris) B. 348. 22.

ðylæs him ætwite & on edwite sette his geðoftan, dæt he for ege ðæs deaðes ða þing dyde, þe he ær gesund don nolde (exprobrant only). B. 438. 9.

& him on fultom cegdon ða godcundan aarfæstnesse (invocantes divinæ auxilium pietatis). B. 356. 24.

& he micle geornfulnessse dyde, pæt he æghwanon mæst reliquia begeate para eadigra apostola & martyra, & on heora weorðunge wibedas sette & porticas worhte & todælde on pæt sylfe (in hoc ipsum, = to that end) binnan pære ylcan cyricean weallum. B. 466. 11. (Ca).

& eit oðre siððe he wæs on hergað gelend on ðæt ilce rice. Chron. 168. 23 (abcd).

& woldon ða faran on hergoð on ðæt Cristene folc. Chron. 234. 14. (c).

To is more usual in phrases of purpose. Except for the phrases on fultom (found only after verbs of, or implying, motion; otherwise on + dat.) and on bismær, on edwit, this use of in, on is almost restricted to Bede. Bede has in where the Latin affords it, but otherwise on. See examples.

Ælfric shows no examples of this use of on.

6. After verbs denoting a change of form or nature, the resultant form is put in the acc. after in, on.

This notion is much more often rendered by to + dat. (see To. III.), except after verbs of dividing, see below, a.

. . . oððæt hio (i. e. seo costnung) utasciet on weorc. C. P. 71. 7.

Ac seo hreowsung ðe him ða gewearð (wearð) swyðe raðe on wyrсан geðanc gehwyrfed. O. 38. 21.

Ac (scl. he) gesette ða men on ænne truman ðe mon hiora mægas ær on ðæm londe slog (i. e. constituted them a separate company). O. 80. 19.

Ða ongunnon lease men wyrсан spell, & sædon pæt hio sceolde mid hire drycraeft þa men forbredan, & (read & ?) weorpan hi an wilde deora lic (Circe's transformation of the companions of Ulysses). Bo. 194. 31.

þa weoxon þa fyr swiðe & heo togædre peoddon & somnodon oð pæt heo wæron in æne unmætne læg geanede & gesomnade (in immensam adunati sunt flammam). B. 214. 2.

ðæt se earm wæs in micelne swile gecerred (grauatum est brachium . . . ac versum in tumorem). B. 392. 5.

para trea æcyrfe & lafe oðre fyre forbærnde wæron oðre in hwylichwugu fatu geheowod wæren menniscas brocas (in vasa quælibet humani usus formarentur). B. 224. 16.

ða (scl. hus) syndon nu in hus gehwerfed oferæta & drucennesse & leasspellunge (in comestionum &c. . . cubilia conversæ). B. 354. 19.

For Ælfric see p. 8. The in's of the examples from Bede are all from in of the Latin.

a. A special note is here made of in, on + acc. of resultant parts after verbs of dividing. To + dat., by far the more usual construction after verbs of transformation, does not appear after verbs of dividing; in, on + acc. is the regular construction for all texts.

. . . swa swa scearp sweord ða wunde tosceat on tu. C. P. 453. 17.
 ðonne ðæt mod bið forlæten & onstýred & todæled ungedafenlice . . . on 11 (O.).

 424. 7.

 sticca. S. C. 380. 24.

forðan ðe nan stæf ne byð naht, gif he gæð on twa. Ælf. Gr. 5. 4.

The following is the only exception observed:

wetodælað ða boc to cwydum and syððan ða cwydas to dælum, eft ða dælas to stæfgefegum and syððan ða stæfgefegu to stafum. Ælf. Gr.
 4. 19.

II. The acc. is used after in, on, in a number of phrases, quite independently of any notion of change or motion in the predicate to which the phrase belongs. The acc. here seems to have an adverbial value in itself, and the preposition (except in phrases of direction, see below, 1.) has not a directive, and sometimes scarcely a locative, character.

1. On . . . healf, on . . . healf, on . . . healf, are used to denote the "side on which," without reference to any idea of motion in the verb of the sentence:

ðonne bið hit on sume healf open to wundian. C. P. 431. 9.

Gasð ge gewæpnode ægðer ge on ða suiðran hond ge on ða winstran mid ðæm wæpnum ryhtwisnesse. C. P. 83. 12.

on ælce healf ðæs fyres seo eorðe wæs fif æcra bræde to axan geburnen.
O. 160. 25.

Hwa is ðætte ariman mæge hwæt ðær moncynnes forwearð on ægðere hand . . . ! O. 50. 14.

forði hi (i. e. ða sunnan & ðone monan) ne læt God on ane healf þæs heofones bion, þy læs hi fordon oðre gescefta. Bo. 234. 8. (B.).

ic on him (i. e. ðæm wealle) nænige duru ne eahðyrl ne uppastignesse onhwanon on ænge halfe geseon meahte (alicubi). B. 424. 23.

(scl. sio dene) wes unc on ða wynstran healfe geseted (ad læuam nobis). B. 424. 23.

Ða cerde he ða sona on ða swiðran hond (conuersus ad dexterum iter). B. 428. 24.

& ðær wæs on gehwæðre hond micel wæl geslagen. Chron. 182. 11. (abcd).

forðæm ðær stent lang leoma of, hwilum on ane healfe (scl. ðæs steorran), hwilum on ælce healfe. Chron. 162. 13. (abc).

hac on ðas healfe, illac on ða healfe. Ælf. Gr. 225. 4.

Se engel sæt on ða swiðran healfe ðære byrgene. S. C. 222. 13.

Se Wealdenda Drihten, æfter ðisum wordum, wæs genumen to heofonum, and sitt on ða swiðran hand his Fæder. S. C. 306. 34.

Bede prefers on to in here; in sudhealfe (Lat. ad + acc.) 142. 32, 204. 9, are the only examples of in observed.

Other phrases of direction also appear. In the Voyages of Onthere and Wulfstan, O., appear the navigator's terms on bæcbord, on steorbord:

Ðonne is ðis land oð he cymð to Sciringes heale, & ealne weg on ðæt bæcbord Norðweg. O. 19. 17.

let him ealne weg ðæt weste land on ðæt steorbord, & ða widsæ on ðæt bæcbord drie dagas. O. 17. 10.

On bæcling, translating post terga, occurs in Bede, but not in the other texts:

ða geherde ic sæmninga micelne sweg me on bæcling. B. 426. 29.

ða æt nestan locadon we on bæcling. B. 384. 25.

Bede uses also, however, on bæclinge:

Mid ðy ic ðæt dyde, þa geherde ic pone bisscop me on bæclinge mid geomrunge cweoðan: Eala, hwæt ðu me micel yfel & lað dest mid pinre ærninge (post tergum mihi). B. 400. 17.

Underbæc is usually employed in this sense: ða beseah he hine underbæc wið ðæs wifes Bo. 170. 14; respicio ic beseo underbæc Æ. Gr. 277. 5.

Ælfric shows here, exceptionally, an extension of the use of the acc.:

ða oðre (i. e. the ordinals from 13th on) wendað on ægðerne ende. tertius decimus se preotteoða, tertia decima and tertium decimum and swa forð to ðrym cynnum. Æ. Gr. 282. 20.

Heo (i. e. seo halige gelaðung) tospræt hire bosm þær ðær þa reðan wuniað on nytenlicum ðeawum, and heo is genyrwed on pone ende þe þa gesceadwisan wuniað. S. C. 536. 19.

2. On ðæt gerad, ðæt . . ., introduces the terms on which a proposal is accepted: "on condition that"; and sometimes the reason for an action: "to the end that," "so that."

& ealle ða men . . . hie gefreodon, on ðæt gerad, ðæt he him aðas sworon. O. 190. 31. So 202. 20, 122. 4, 180. 12.

& he . . . hæfde ðriddan dæl his firde beæftan him, on ðæt gerad, gif ænig wære ðe fyr fluge . . . , ðæt him mon sloge. O. 52. 33.

Silla geacsade on hwelc gerad Marius com to Rome (i. e. for what purpose). O. 236. 8.

Swa ic wolde, la Mod, pæt pu pe fore up to us, gif ðe lyste, on þa gerad, pæt pu eft mid us þa eorðan secan wille for godra manna pearfe. Bo. 22. 7. (B).

& (scl. he) hit (i. e. Cumbraland) let eal to Malculme Scotta cyninge, on pæt gerad, pæt he wære his midwyrhta. Chron. 212. 12. (abcd,).

& ða Pihtas heom abædon wif æt Scottan on ða gerad ðæt hi gecuron hyre cynecynn ââ on ða wif healfe. Chron. 5. 5. (de). (on pæt forwyrd, f.).

3. On (his &c.) borg, pleoh, treowa, "on (his &c.) responsibility," "in pledge," "trusting in," is a construction found in C. P. alone, of the texts read for this work.

. . . ða ðe berað on hira greadum ða â libbendan fatu to ðæm ecean temple on hira agenne borg. C. P. 77. 7.

forðæm ðu eart on borg began (Hatt.; gegan Cott.) ðinum friend. C. P. 193. 17.

. . . ðonne mon gehate for his freond ðæt he underfoo his saule on his pleoh. C. P. 193. 7.

. . . ða ðe oðerra monna saula underfooð to lædanne on ða treowa hira agenra gearnunga to ðæm innemestan halignessum. C. P. 77. 4.

Cf. the following passage from the Chron., where on wedde (dat.) is very close in meaning to on borg above :

(scl. hie) hæfdon . . . gehaten, & sume on wedde geseald, & sume mid aðum gefæstnod, pæt hie on hire rædenne beon woldan. Chron. 192. 10. (bcd).

4. Phrases of manner.

Ags. prefers the acc. to the dat. in purely adverbial phrases of manner. So always on (ða &c.) wisan; on riht, on unriht; on ðweorh; on woh; on idel, on idelnesse.

Ne gedafenað hit no ðæt we ealle menn on ane wisan læran, forðam hie ne sint ealle anes modes & anra ðeawa. C. P. 173. 17.

æfter ðæm Somnite awendan on oðre wisan ægðer ge heora sceorp, ge eall heora wæpn ofersylefredon. O. 138. 30.

þonne hio on nane wisan his agnes cræftes ne mæg forbugan pæt he pæt ilce yfel ne gefafige oðrum monnum. Bo. 54. 5. (B.).

ne meahht ðu on oðre wisan biscop halgian buton oðrum biscopum.
B. 72. 14.

an nane wisan ne wurðe gecoræn nan . . . , butan ðes arb. ræde. Chron.
 67. 39. (f<sup>2</sup>) (late).

sume (scl. verba) macjað on twa wisan : plico ic fealde, plicui vel plicavi ic feold. Ælf. Gr. 138. 5.

Gif ðonne se cristenra man swa deð for Godes lufon, þonne geoffrað he ða turtlan on þa betstan wisan. S. C. 142. 16.

Bede uses on instead of in here ; in wisan is noted only once, 346. 19.

The only instance of wisan in the dat. after the preposition is in Bede, 68. 3 : sume seondon þa þe in þisse wiisan þurh wæðnesse agyltað (hac in re, = in this matter, i. e. of stealing, rather a phrase of specification than a phrase of manner).

A number of phrases of similar character, not so often used and so not represented in all texts, may yet be considered regular ; they show always acc. after on. These are :

on riht (Mod. Engl. aright) :

þæt he mæge ongitan ælcne mon on riht hwelc he sie. Bo. 226. 2.

hwæðeric on riht butan incan gefulwad wære (absque scrupulo) B. 402. 21.

Ecgbryht . . . ða munecas on riht gecierde, ðæt hie Eastron on ryht heoldon. Chron. 70. 28. (abc).

þisne anweald forgeaf Crist þam apostolum and eallum biscoepum, gif hi hit on riht healdað. S. C. 232. 34.

on unriht :

. . . þy læs hie on unriht hæmen. C. P. 99. 14.

. . . Zacheus, seðe healfe his æhte pearfum dælde, and mid healfum dæle forgeald be feowerfealdum swa hwæt swa he ær on unriht be anfealdum reafode. S. C. 134. 1.

hi wilniað ðæt hie andrysnen sien ðæm ðe on woh libbað. C. P. 109. 21.

forðy ða goodan ðæt good on riht secað & yflan on woh. Bo. 178. 6.

ðæt hi eft ðy mare wite hæbben ðe hi gere witon ðæt hi on ðweorh doð, & ðeah nyllað geswincan. C. P. 429. 9.

& (scl. he) þa eac ongeat þæt he hæfde on ðweorh gedon. B. 170. 20.

on idel :

"Ic wene þæt ic swunce on idel, ðaða ic eow to Gode gebigde." S. C.
 102. 18.

On idel bið ælc man gedrefed, seðe hordað, and nat hwam he hit gega-derað. S. C. 66. 4.

Ða gesægdon Romane on an Bryttum, ðæt hi no ma ne mihton for heora gescyldnysse swa gewinnfullicum fyrdum swencte beon. B. 44. 32 (Ca.).

Ða fæste Crist feowertig daga and feowertig nihta on an. S. C. 168. 17.

The two examples show that the phrase has two meanings: "once for all" (Latin ultra) in the first instance, "continuously" in the second.

in, on onlicnesse, gelicnesse :

& (scl. he) eorre from him acyrde ðæs soðfæstan deman, in ða onlicnesse Niniutwearena (instar Nineuitarum) B. 350. 3.

So: in bryda onlicnesse (ad uicem sponsarum) B. 354. 24, on onlicnesse upastigendra yselena (instar faularum) B. 426. 22, treow geweorc on gelicnesse medmicles huses geworht (in modum domunculi facta) B. 272. 5; although not proved, are doubtless in the acc.

on gewill (= at the command of) :

gif seo wyrd swa hweorfan mot on yfelra manna gewill. Bo. 8. 20 (B.).

hu he het sumne biscep secgan on his gewill hwa his fæder wære. O. 3. 13.

ða, ðeh ðe hwa wære mid ðæm cyningum on hiora gewill yfel donde, ðæt hie swa ðeah æt him ne mehton mid ðy nane are findan. O. 56. 1.

Romane . . . on ungewiss on an nirewett beforan. O. 120. 28.

On ungearwe, "suddenly and secretly," seems to be instrumental: forðon ðe he on ða burgleode on ungearwe becom, O. 196. 25. So O. 46. 36, 118. 20, 166. 32.

Bede shows a number of phrases with the acc. that do not appear in the other texts.

& (scl. he) hine wæs in gebed streccende æt lichoman ðæs Godes weres (prosternens only). B. 380. 8.

& (scl. Cædmon) ðæm wordum sona monig word in ðæt ilce gemet Gode wyrðes songes togeðeodde (in eundem modum verba . . . adjunxit). B. 344. 16.

So: in gemet ðara biddendra (in modum orantium). B. 288. 33.

sio swætneis, ðe ic ær bregde & me micel ðuhte, in ða witgemetnysse ðæs æfteran leohtes & beorhtnesse wæs lytel and medmicel gesæwen (in comparatione). B. 430. 20.

5. The word denoting the language in which something is said or written is construed in the acc. after on, in. So the proper adjectives (in substantive use) læden, englisc, scyttisc, crecisc, etc.:

ongan ic . . . ða boc wendan on Englisc ðe is nemned on Læden Pas-toralis, & on Englisc Hierdeboc. C. P. 7. 18.

Forðon hi mon hæst on Grecisc Amazanas, ðæt is on Englisc 'fortende.'
O. 46. 14.

peah hit nu gebyrige pæt þa utemestan ðioda eowerne naman upahebban & on manig ðeodisc eow herigen, . . . ne se deað peah swelces ne recð.
Bo. 68. 30. (B.).

se is nemned on Englisc Cuoferesburg (lingua Anglorum). B. 210. 24.

So: on Englisc (Anglorum sermone). B. 110. 12.

(scl. ðæt ealond) is in Scyttisc genemned Inisbofnide (sermone Scot-tico). B. 272. 27.

. . . se steorra ðe mon on boclæden hæst cometa. Chron. 162. 8. (abc).

Stephanus is Grecisc nama, pæt is on Leden, Coronatus, pæt we cweðað on Englisc, Gewuldorbeagod. S. C. 50. 11.

Further geðiode, gereorde :

forðæmðe hie (i. e. ða bec) næron on hiora agen geðiode awritene.
C. P. 5. 13.

ða fræg hine & ahsode his mæssepreost on his agen geðeode . . . for hwon he weope (lingua patria). B. 198. 6.

se wer wæs on Lædenesc gereorde & in Grecisc & in Englisc micellice intimbred & wel gelæred (Latina, Græca et Saxonica lingua). B. 408. 13.

Bede and Ælfric show rarely instr. dat. without preposition :

Dis ealond nu on andweardnysse æfter rime fif Moyses boca, ðam seo godcunde æ awriten is, fif ðeoda gereordum ænne wisdom pære hean soð-fæstnysse & ðære soðan heanesse smeað & andettað; ðæt is on Angol-cynnes gereorde & Brytta & Scotta & Peohta & Lædenwara. B. 26. 28.

And ure ælc gehydre hu hi spræcon urum gereordum, on ðam ðe we accennede wæron! S. C. 314. 18.

Observe that the preposition in each case appears in the following phrase.

Ælfric uses on + dat. except for Læden and the words in -isc :

Emmanuhel, pæt is gereht on urum geðeode 'God is mid us.' S. C. 194. 1.
 So: on urum gereorde, 30. 25, 94. 27. on ure geðeode 90. 11 is possibly an instr., more likely an isolated instance of retention of the older acc.
 The use of on + dat. for older on + acc. is a characteristic of Ælfric's syntax, see pp. 3 ff.

6. Very rarely, that received in payment is construed in the acc. after on, in.

. . . ðæt he scolde his freond ðone betstan . . . in gold bebycgan (auro vendere). B. 130. 33.

Cf.: Nu ic on maðma hord mine bebohte frode feorhlege. Beowulf 2800.

7. Instances of the acc. after in, on that cannot be listed under some one of the categories already given (except time-phrases, which will be treated further on) scarcely occur. Sua ðæt he self nat huæt he on ðæt irre deð, C. P. 289. 10, is the only unexplained passage I have found.

IN, ON + DATIVE AND INSTRUMENTAL.

The instr. after the preposition (except in time-phrases, see pp. 34 ff.) is rare, being almost entirely confined to the pronouns þy, þon, hwon. þam, not þon or þy, is the form of the article after in, on.

I. In, on + dat. gives location.

1. Of that which contains :

ðæt wæter on ðæm ceake wæs gedrefed. C. P. 105. 21.

hu Julius besæt Tarquatus, Pompeiuses ladteow, on anum fæstenne. O. 6. 1.

Ða wæs heo restende in sweostra slæperne (in dormitorio). B. 340. 4.

& hie restað begun on Eoforwic ceastre, on anum portice. Chron. 78. 8 (abcde).

God wæs mid hire, forðan ðe he wæs on hire innoðe belocen, seðe belicð ealne middangeard on his anre handa. S. C. 198. 3.

Bede uses on here very rarely : Ond he wæs on his circan be-byrged (in . . . ecclesia) B. 406. 4.

Also in a wider sense, of geographical location :

ðæt hi hi forlægen on Egiptum on hira gioguðe. C. P. 403. 33.

On ðærc ilcan Asiam is se hehsta beorg Olympus. O. 12. 15.

. . . wearð ða fordrifan on an igland ut on þære wendelsæ. Bo. 194. 11 (B.).

Seo dun stent on Campania landes gemæron, wið þa sæ Adriaticum. S. C. 502. 3.

Bede uses both on and in here, with perhaps a preference of in :

he wolde in ðam fyrrestum dælum Ongolcynnes . . . ða sæd sawan ðæs halgan geleafan (in . . . partibus). B. 166. 26.

Wæron ða Wihtrud & Swefheard cyningas on Cænt (in Cantia). B. 408. 7.

For in in the Chron. see p. 46.

Three instances of on + instr. in C. P.: on ðis wege 395. 8, on ðis middangearde 393. 15, 445. 9, are all that have been observed.

Also of the including body, assembly, number :

On his feðehere wæron XXXII M, & ðæs gehorsedan fite healf M, & scipa an hund & eahtatig (in exercitu ejus). O. 124. 11.

Ða sæt he Aidan in ðæm gemote (concilio inerat). B. 164. 2.

a). in, on + dat. is employed in a secondary figurative sense to express a great variety of non-physical relations. So of the seat of thought and emotion; of the (moral) person in whom something is observed, the composition, body of doctrine, in which a statement is made; of the state, condition, office, etc., etc.:

suæ suæ ðara monna honda & fet wæren ađwægene on ðære ealdan æ on ðæm ceake beforan ðæm temple. C. P. 105. 17.

. . . & ðætte tælwierðes on him sie, ðæt hie ðæt tælen. C. P. 194. 24.

him ða wearð emleof on hyra mode ðæt hi gesawon mannes blod agoten swa him wæs ðara nytena meoþc ðe hi mæst hi libbað. O. 30. 8.

ðær he on tweogendlican onbide wæs hwæðer he wið Romanum winnan dorste. O. 204. 28.

& se god is simle on anum untodæled. Bo. 142. 22.

ðu ðæt seolfæ leornadest in bebode ðære aldan cyðnesse (testamenti veteris præceptione). B. 76. 7.

he hit gehyrde from ðæm seolfan Uttan mæssepreoste, in ðæm & ðurh ðone ðis wundor gefylled wæs (in quo et per quem). B. 200. 26.

Mid ðy he ða us eac sceawode & geseoh in gewinne & in ormodnesse gesette beon . . . (in labore et desperatione positos). B. 386. 8.

forðon ðe hi woldon, for Godes lufan, on elðiodignesse beon. Chron. 160. 31. (abcd).

ða wæs þa sume hwile Godes ege on mancynne æfter þam flode, and wæs an gereord on him eallum. S. C. 22. 18.

swa eac on engliscre spræce ne cweð nan man se, buton he ær sum ðincg be ðam men spræce. Ælf. Gr. 99. 3 (cf. p. 25).

He com ða on næddran hiwe to þam twam mannum. S. C. 16. 32.

Bede uses both in and on; but there appears a tendency to use on where the Latin has not in: on mode 148. 21, 234. 25, 334. 32, 378. 29, 380. 6, 404. 25—none of them translating in: in mode 68. 15, 86. 34, 190. 26, all from Latin in. The following passage shows the vacillating use of the two prepositions in Bede: he wæs in his mode & on his ðeawum to ðon elreordig, ðæt . . . (animo ac moribus) 148. 17.

On scarcely appears in giving citations from books: swa swa we in ðisse ærran bec feawum wordum forecwædon (præcedente libro). B. 252. 12.

b). On, in + dat. is used in phrases nearly equivalent to a predicate noun or adjective, to express that in which a possession or quality consists:

ðæt hi ðonne gehieran ðreagende of ðæs lariowes muðe hu micle byrðenne hie habbað on hiera scyldum. C. P. 159. 19.

ðæt gafol bið on deora fellum, & on fugela feðerum, & hwales bane, & on ðæm sciprapum. O. 18. 17.

nu ic on gite openlice ðæt sio soðe gesælð stent on godra monna gearnunga, & sio unsælð stent on yfelra monna gearnunga. Bo. 212. 12.

ða cyningas begen ætgædre sendon þæm apostolican papan micle gife on monegum goldfatum & seolforfatum (missis . . . donariis et aureis atque argenteis vasis non paucis). B. 252. 15.

Sende eac swilce se eadiga papa in þa ilcan tid Gregorius Æþelberhte cyninge ærendgewrit somod & woruldgife monige in missenlicum mæg-wlitum (in diversis speciebus). B. 90. 8.

& genamon eal ðæt ðær binnan wæs, ge on feo, ge on wifum, ge eac on bearnum. Chron. 168. 5. (abcd.)

Nis na gytsung on feo anum, ac is eac on gewilnunge micelre geðincðe. S. C. 176. 25.

c). In, on + dat. or instr. sometimes forms a phrase of reason or means—of that “in” and “by” or “for” which :

Forðæmðe on eowerre towesnesse ge habbað gecyðed ðæt ge ures nanes ne siendon. C. P. 211. 13.

swa hit mon on ðara wæpnedmonna gebærum ongitan mehte, hu hie afyrhtede wæron. O. 194. 9.

ælc gesceaft wilnað symle to bionne ; þæt is swiðe sweotol on ðære tid-runge. Bo. 152. 25.

swa swa we magon on anre bisene sweotole oncnawan (ut uno probare sat erit exemplo). B. 196. 5.

ðæt he meahte swiðe gefultmed beon in heora dæghwamlicum gebedodum (juvari . . . orationibus). B. 230. 11.

and seo eorðe, þe is awyriged on ðinum weorce, sylð þe ðornas and bremblas. S. C. 18. 16.

The instr. of the dem. pronoun, þon, þy, appears frequently in this sense after on, in in Bede; rarely in Orosius and Boethius :

(scl. he) bæc him æxe & adosan on honda ; tacnode in þon, þæt he nales to idelnesse, swa sume oðre, ac to gewinne in þæt mynster eode (no Lat. for in þon). B. 264. 7. So in þon : (ex quo) 290. 28, (no Lat.) 130. 18.

þa ongunnon þa nedlingas & þa scipmen þa oncras upp teon, & in þone sæ syndon ; woldian þæt scip mid fæstnian, & peah þe heo þis dydon, noht heo on þon fremedon ; ac þa yða weollon & ymbsweopon & æghwonan þæt scip fylðon (hoc agentes). B. 200. 13.

So on þon : (no Lat.) 126. 22, 164. 1, 186. 1, (in quo) 106. 20.

. . . feng Alexander to Macedonia rice . . . & his ærestan ðegnscipe on ðon gecyðde ðe he ealle Creças . . . geniedde. O. 122. 32.

nis hit þonne on þy (i. e. what I have said) swiðe sweotol þæt ðas and-weardan god ne sint na ða soðan god? Bo. 90. 15.

So on þy Bo. 46. 14, 46. 16 (B). But also : On þæm wæs sweotol þæt hi for heora godum weorcum hæfden ðone cræft þæt him mon ne meahte ofer-wiðan. Bo. 230. 3. So : on þam 56. 32 (B) ; on hwam 24. 1. (B).

Observe that Bede uses þon, Bo. þy.

d). Of the occasion: the time of an occurrence is indicated by that which occupies the time. So on gefeohte &c. have almost the value of time phrases.

him bið sua sua ðam menn ðe bið abisgod on færelede mid oðrum cierum. C. P. 37. 22.

On ðam forman gefeohte wearð Romane consul ofslagen Mallius. O. 108. 4.

ða wearð he semninga on middum ðam siðfæte mid hefigre aðle gehrinen (medio itinere). B. 378. 19.

ða onget heo ge in ðam swefne ge on hire modes gesyhðe hire æteawed weosan, ðætte heo geseah (vel in somnio vel in visione mentis). B. 340. 14.

& ða on ðære hergunge wæs þæt mære mynster forbærnd æt Rypon. Chron. 213. 36. (d).

e). The disease which is the cause of death is construed in the dat. after on with the verbs gefaron, sweltan, forðferan:

Traianus gefor on utsihte (profluuiio ventris extinctus est). O. 266. 4.

ða folc . . . on feferadle mid ungemete swulton. O. 198. 34.

ða wæs . . . þætte Oswio Norðanhymbra cyning wæs gestonden untrymnesse, on ðære he eac forðferde, (qua et mortuus est). B. 274. 28.

2. On + dat. denotes that on or upon which. In does not occur in this sense.

& ealle ða hearga Israhela folces wæron atiefrede on ðam wage. C. P. 153. 23.

forðam he bið gesewen standende on ðam hrofe godcun(d)ra ðinga. C. P. 81. 15.

ic sitte on anre heare dune. O. 142. 14.

ða cild ridað on hiora stafum. Bo. 180. 9.

þa eode he to him, grette hine & frægn, for hwon he in þære tide, þe oðre men slepon & reston, ana swa unrot on stane wæccende sætte (in lapide). B. 128. 19.

Mid ðy wit ða becoman to ðam walle, þa sona instæpe, ne wat ic hwelcre endebyrdnesse, wæron wit on his heanesse on ðam walle ufonweardum (in summitate eius). B. 430. 1.

& ðreo (scl. ðara scipa) stodon æt ufewardum ðæm muðan on drygun. Chron. 176. 15 (abcd).

and ðær com ða fleogende Godes engel scinende swa swa sunne, and . . . agrof mid his fingre rode-tacn on ðam fyðerscytum stanum. S. C. 466. 14.

3. In, on + dat. is the construction for the "part affected," whether the place be "in" or "on" in mod. Engl. Bede shows here both prepositions.

ðonne ne burne se weliga ðe swiður on ðære tungan ðe on oðrum limum. C. P. 309. 3.

hie hiene meðigne on cneowum sittende metten (fixo genu). O. 134. 31.

þæt him mon oflete blodes on þæm earme. Bo. 104. 23.

& he (i. e. the body of St. Cuthberht) wæs begendlic in ðæm geðeodnesum leoða, þæt he wæs mycele gelicra slæpendum menn þonne deadum (flexilibus artuum compagibus). B. 374. 30.

pa pohton heo & spræcon, þæt hy oðpe oðre pruh sohton oððe pone lichoman on cneom gebegde, to þon þæt heo hine þær in gedon meahon (in genibus). B. 296. 23.

Ða gefelde he, swa swa he seolfa æfter sægde, swa swa mycel hond & brad his heafod gehrine in ðæm dæle þe þæt sar & seo adl on wæs (in parte, qua dolebat). B. 380. 13.

Swa hwylc hyse-cild swa ne bið ymsniden on þam fylmene his flæsces his sawul losað, forðan ðe he aydlode min wed. S. C. 94. 13.

This idea is also expressed by the dat. without prep.:

Ik wæs blind bæm eagum, nu ic beorhtlice leohtes Bruce. S. C. 422. 7.

& þonne lytte ær his mid ferhðe weorðe bæm eagum blind. Bo. 206. 26.

4. Certain verbs of depriving take acc. of thing and on + dat. of person. Cf. Wülfing I, §§40, 18. These verbs are niman, geniman, geneman, reafian, gereafian. The particle be- prefixed to these verbs changes the construction to acc. of person and gen. of thing (the only exception noted is: fremde & ellðeodge . . . lyttes hwæt on us bereafiað. O. 152. 32).

eft bið genumen on ðearfendum monnum ðæt ðæt hie ðonne wenað ðæt hie Gode sellan. C. P. 343. 5.

he him ageafe ðæt he (ær) on him gereafade. O. 146. 30.

& Romane genamon on him (i. e. Penum) LXXXIII scipa. O. 172. 33.

. . . þæs þe . . . sio wyrd þe on geniman ne meahte. Bo. 34. 14.

. . . se þe hit gaderað & on oðrum reafað. B. 38. 13 (B.).

Gegyrewað ðone lichoman mid neowum hræglum fore ðam ðe ge ðær on noman (quæ tulisti only). B. 376. 20.

& ðone mæstan dæl ðinra æhta ðu onfehst, ða ðe on ðe genemde wæron (tibi ablata). B. 462. 32 (Ca.).

& genamon ðreo ceastra on heom. Chron. 32. 40 (bc).

beniman, benæman, bereafian, on the other hand, take acc. of person and gen. of thing:

buton hie eac hie ðæs naman bename ðæt hie nan folc næren. O. 94. 4. So O. 62. 17, 22, 28, 86. 30.

Ac Constantinus hiene benæmde ægðer ge ðæs onwaldes, ge ðære purpuran ðe he werede, ge ðære scole ðe he on leornode. O. 284. 23.

Cirus benom Babylonia hiere onwealde (Cott.; but Lauderdale gives the normal gen., onwealdes). O. 252. 10.

þonne meahte hi mon his beniman (Cott.; Bodl. has hi mon hi). Bo. 188. 24.

(scl. se mona) eac hwilum ða sunnan heore leohtes bereafað. Bo. 8. 1 (B).

Her eac wearð Æðeredes dohtar, Myrcna hlafordes, ælces onwealdes on Myrcum benumen. Chron. 192. 23. (bcd.)

forðan ðe se anda ablent his mod, and ælcere gastlicere blisse benæmð. S. C. 606. 4.

The acc. of the thing and of + dat. of person also appears, especially in Ælfric, where it may be considered the regular idiom:

Se ðe me bring lac of earmes monnes æhtum on woh gereafodu. C. P. 343. 8.

ne nanes cinnes ðeudom ne nime man of þæt abbotrice of Medeshamstede. Chron. 58. 30 (e<sup>1</sup>.) (late).

beo hire nama Virago, þæt is fæmne; forðan ðe heo is of hire were genumen. S. C. 14. 25. So: 14. 21, 18. 9, 17, 260. 6; Æl. Gram. 9. 19, 203. 11. and (scl. Crist) pone deofol gewylde, and him of anam Adam & Euan. S. C. 28. 1. So: 216. 29.

Other constructions with these verbs are rare:

a). Dat. of person and gen. of thing:

(scl. he) benam Sigebrihte his rices. Chron. 82. 3. (bcd) (a. has, regularly, acc.: Sigebryht).

ne mæg para yfelena yfel þam goodan beniman heora goodes & heora wites (Cott.; Bodl. has hiora god). Bo. 188. 22. Cf. Wulfing I. §31.

and hu he (i. e. Crist) ðone hellican deofol gewylde, and him mancynnes benæmde. S. C. 460. 10.

b). Acc. of pers. and acc. of thing:

ðæt he scolde Eadwine ðone cyning somod ge rice ge lif beneoman (sperans se regem . . . regno simul et vita privaturum). B. 122. 10. Cf. Wulfing I. §117.

c). Dat. of pers. and acc. of thing:

(scl. he) benam Sigebrihte . . . his rice. Chron. 82. 3. (ef) (late).

d). Verb in the passive, and dat. of thing:

his cirice eallum hire æhtum wæs bereafod & forhergad (ecclesiam . . . rebus ablatis omnibus depopulatam). B. 298. 19. Cf. Wulfing I. §78.

e). Acc. of person and on + dat. of thing in what is really a phrase of specification, see p. 32.

ðæt we earme men reafige & strude on heora æhtum & on heora godum (no Lat.) B. 214. 1. Cf. Wulfing I. §111.

5. Verbs of believing (in), rejoicing (in) etc. See pp. 5 ff.

6. Wrecan takes the acc. of the wrong, or person, avenged, and on + dat. of the person on whom vengeance is taken. Cf. in, on + acc. I. 2.

hit God siððan longsumlice wrecende wæs, ærest on him selfum, & siððan on his bearnum. O. 58. 17.

ðæt he ða gyltas ne wrece on scyldegum monnum. C. P. 383. 16.

nu ic beode minum englum þæt hi me on ðisum fiscere gewrecon. S. C. 376. 21.

7. In, on + dat. is used to form a phrase of "specification"—a phrase limiting the application of an adjective, verb or noun; mod. Engl. "in," "in regard to," "in the matter of":

ðæt he sie hiera fæder & reccere on lare, & hiera modur on mildheortnesse. C. P. 123. 25.

ðeh ic ymbe Romana gewin on ðæm gearrime forð ofer ðæt geteled hæbbe. O. 110. 12.

þæt se wære an feðe meahtegost se ðe meahte gan oð ðisse eorðan ende. Bo. 180. 20.

ac ealle cyningas, þa ðe in Breotone wæron ær, þu in meahte & in rice feor oferstigest (potestate). B. 128. 33.

& he gearo wære mid him selfum & on eallum ðam ðe him læstan woldan, to ðæs heres ðearfe. Chron. 142. 36. (a). (bcde. have mid.) forðan ðe seo halige gelaðung on flæsclicum mannun is swiðe brad, & on gastlicum nearo. S. C. 614. 11.

On is rare in Bede here; in the customary preposition. But before the instr. on is used: gif heo on hwon agylton (siqua delinquent) 162. 13, is the only example noted.

8. The function, the purpose served, appears in the dat. after on with the neuter verbs beon, weorðan; rarely after other verbs, in, on + acc. being the preferred construction. See in, on + acc. I. 5.

ðonne sculon hie eft niedenga gadrian oðer ierfe on ðæs wriexte ðe hie ær . . . sealdon. C. P. 341. 18.

he wende ðæt hie wolden Hannibale on fultome beon. O. 196. 7. So, with dat. of person interested, 48. 24, 78. 22, 98. 20, 112. 22, 144. 26, 162. 11, 196. 7, 200. 10, 208. 7, 220. 4, 238. 7.

Darius, Persa cyning, Læcedemonium on fultome wearð wið ðæm Athenienses. O. 90. 11.

ðeh ðe hie mid ðære wrace ðæm adræfdan on nanum stale beon ne mehton. O. 232. 23.

. . . ðæt he hie ymb ðæt rice gesemde, & on ðære gewitnesse wære ðæt hit emne gedæled wære. O. 114. 18.

& heora (i. e. ðara læca) nan him ne mehte bion on nanum gode (Cott.; Laud. has bion nane gode, instr.). O. 282. 18.

& him Penda on fultome wæs (auxilium præbente illi Penda). B. 146. 29.

Me is, cwæð heo, ðin cyme on miclum ðonce (gratus mihi est multum adventus tuus). B. 290. 15. So 128. 3.

Bede has commonly on here, as the Latin original almost never has the preposition. In is exceptional: Wæron her stronge cyningas & wel cristne ond eallum ellreordum cynnum ut in miclum ege (barbaris nationibus essent terrori). B. 258. 21. In the following passage the dat. is anomalous, being after a verb of motion and from Lat. in + acc.: Seo stow neowan gemonig-fealdedum geleafsumum folcum in setle bisceopstoles wæs toæteded (in sedem pontificatus addita). B. 478. 28 (C.).

9. On + dat. is used to measure distance and, very rarely, value:

Aleagað hit ðonne forhwæga on anre mile ðone mæstan dæl fram ðam tune, ðonne oðerne, ðonne ðæne ðriddan, oððe hyt eall aled bið on ðære anre mile. O. 20. 30.

Ðonne sceolon beon gesamnode ealle ða menn ðe swyftoste hors habbað on ðam lande, for hwæga on fif milum oððe on syx milum fram ðam feo. O. 20. 35.

Seo (scl. ceaster) is from Cantwarena byrig on feower & twentigum mila westrihte (distat . . . milibus passuum ferme xxiv). B. 104. 25.

. . . in Farne ðam ealonde, ðæt is on twæm milum from ðære byrig ut on sæ (duobus ferme milibus passuum). B. 202. 10. So B. 40. 3 (Ca.), 360. 24, 394. 15.

Bede never uses in in this sense, nor does the Latin use a preposition.

& on ælcra (scl. bec) bið an æstel, se bið on fitegum mancessa. C. P. 91.

After verbs of motion, distance "how far" is rendered by the acc. without preposition: & hiene het iernan on his anum purpurnum fela mila beforan his rædwæne. O. 280. 12. This is parallel with the time-constructions, see pp. 34 ff.; time or distance within which, on + dat.; time "how long," distance "how far," acc.

10. A few adverbial phrases of manner show the dat. — cf. in, on + acc. II. 4.

So regularly on sundrum, sundron:

separatim on sundron. Ælf. Gr. 229. 7.

Other words rarely: on styccemælum (paulatim) B. 380. 14 (O., Ca.); hio (i. e. lufu) scinð suiðe smicere on twæm bleom sua sua twegea bleo godwebb. C. P. 87. 9. Cf.: & þæt (i. e. ðæt blodig wolcen) wæs swyðost on middeniht oðywed, & swa on mistlice beamas wæs gehiwod. Chron. 234. 14. (c).

On (or in) Godes &c. naman, translating in nomine, is doubtless dat. A few other phrases, peculiar to Christian theology, occur :

Seo is soð lufu, þæt gehwa his freond lufie on gode and his feond for gode ("love his friend well, and his foe for his good," Thorpe; but a likelier rendering is "love his friend in God and his foe for God's sake.") S. C. 528. 32.

TIME PHRASES.

Cf. Wülfing I. §125. Wülfing says that the instr. answers "auf die Frage 'wann' oder 'wie lange,'" gives abundant examples of the first, but none that really holds of the second. "Monigra geara tide" may be explained as acc.; "& ofer ðæt ealle þy dæge ne blon & ðære æfterfyligendan nihte" was to the writer a case of "time when"; and these are the only examples he gives of the instr. = "time how long."

Anglo-Saxon has a great variety of constructions to express "time when," some of which have apparently no distinct value; e. g. ðære tide, on ðære tide, on ða tid are quite indistinguishable in meaning. The difference between them, if there be a difference, as the law of economy in language leads one to expect, I have been unable to discover. The question as to the individual values of acc. and dat. (loc., instr.) after in, on is further complicated by the occurrence of the forms dæg, niht, morgen, which may be loc. as well as acc. The condition of things can best be set forth by taking up each time-word separately, and tracing it through the texts read. The acc. is alleged only where it is proved by the form of the noun itself or of accompanying adjective.

I. "Time when."

C. P. shows only on ða tid:

Donne cymð his hlaforð on ðæm dæge ðe he ne wenð, & on ða tid ðæt he hine ær nat. C. P. 121. 15.

... on ða tid ðe se biscephad swa gehiered wæs. C. P. 53. 18.

O. shows only on . . . tide, tidum:

forðon ðe he on ðære tide sige hæfde. O. 246. 18.

Donne on ðæm wintregum tidum wyrð se muða fordrifen foran from ðæm norðernum windum ðæt seo ea bið flowende ofer eal Aegypta land. O. 12. 34.

Bo. shows on + acc., on + dat., and simple dat., without difference of meaning; but on + dat. is preferred:

pu pe þam winterdagum selest scorte tida & þæs sumeres dahum langran, pu pe þa treowa purh pone stearkan wind norðan & eastan on hærfest tid heora leofa bereafast, . . . Bo. 8. 6 (B.).

forðæm se pe his ær tide ne tiolað, þonne bið his on tid untilad. Bo.
106. 3.

. . . ealle þa pe on his tidum libbende wæron on eorðan. Bo. 58. 16 (B).
ne ðincð me næfre nan wuht swa soðlic swa me ðincað þine spell ðæm tidum pe ic þa gehere (Cott.; B. has þam timum). Bo. 204. 23.

Observe that the datives are plural, the acc. singular.

Bede shows all three constructions, and both on and in; but on is rare, in being the preposition ordinarily used:

ond heo him sægdon, in hwylce tiid heo of middangearde leorde (quando). B. 340. 30.

Ðæt gelomp in ða tid his biscophada (tempore episcopatus eius). B.
200. 28.

Ðæt he to ðæm seolfan mynstre becwom in ða tide ðære miclan deaðlicnesse & wooles (tempore mortalitatis). B. 232. 19.

Ða ðæt land ða getawod wæs, & he on gerisne tid mid hwæte hit seow, ða ne com ðær nænig grownes up ne wæstm (tempore congruo). B. 366. 24.

In ðisse stowe he simle on ða tid ðæs feowertiglican fæstennes ær Eastrum & eft ðæt feowertig ær Cristes gebyrdtide in micelre forhæfdnesse & in micelre witsumnesse gebeda & in teara gegote gewunelice wæs (tempus agere . . . solebat). B. 376. 9.

The two last are the only instances of on tid noted in MS. T.

In ðære tide hæfde Honarius biscophad (quo tempore). B. 146. 3.

Hæfde Osweo se cyning in ðæm ærestan tidum his riices efenheltan ðære cynlecan weorðnesse (primis regni sui temporibus). B. 194. 4.

Ðæt sylfe eac swylce Boisel his magister on his tide gewunelice dyde (suo tempore). B. 362. 22.—on + dat. is very rare in (T).

100. 18.

se leofað usse tide (qui ad nostra . . . tempora permansit). B. 144. 20.

Ðissum tidum cwom Mellitus Lundenceastre biscop to Rome (his temporibus). B. 108. 7.

ðære tide is by far the most usual rendering of quo, illo, isto, hoc, eo tempore, and ðissum tidum of his temporibus, in Bede.

Chron. shows on tid rarely, in ðas tid only in MSS. (de), (late), on tide, on tidum only in (def) (late) and rarely there, in tide, in tidum and the dat. without prep. not at all.

Feld dænnede secgas hwate siððan sunne up on morgen tid . . . oð sio æðe'le gesceaft sah to settle. Chron. 202. 13. (abcd).

Her Norðhymbra fordrifon heora cyning Alchred of Eoforwic on Eastertid. Chron. 91. 33. (de).

& in ðas tid wæron ærendračan gesend . . . to Englalande. Chron. 97. 11 (de).

On ðam tidum aras Pelaies gedwyld. Chron. 17. 17. (e).

Her wæs Eadweard cyning ofslægen on æfentide æt Corfesgeate, on XV. Kl. Apl. Chron. 232. 2. (def).

The infrequency of tid in the Chron.—more definite dates being generally used—may account for the absence of instr. dat., otherwise a preferred construction for dates in Chron.

Ælfric yields no examples of on tid. On tide alone is found. The word is less frequently used in Ælfric than tima, and means not "time"—in general—but "time of day," hour.

He ða befran on hwilcere tide he gewyrpte. S. C. 128. 11.

þa andwyrde Petrus, Hit is underntid; hu mihte we on ðysre tide beon fordrence? S. C. 314. 23.

Tid means "tense" in Ælf. Gr.

Summary:

The two most authoritative texts, C. P. and O., each consistent in its use, C. P. of acc., O. of dat., after on, show that the uncertainty as to case is old. Bede shows as usual both constructions, but prefers acc. to dat. after the preposition, and dat. without prep. to either. The preposition is in, rarely on, in Bede. Ælfric follows his general tendency (see pp. 3-5) here, and uses only dat. after on.

Note. ænige tide B. 356. 12: Ðis spel we forðon setton in ure bec, þæt we men monede, ðæt hio gesege Dryhtnes weorc, hu egesfullic he is on geðeahtingum ofer monna bearn, ðy læs we ænige tide ussum licumlicum unalefednessum sion þeowiende (tempore aliquo), seems a case of fem. instr. in -e.

Tima.

Tima does not appear as a means of dating in C. P. or B. In Bo. it is found rarely, not often in Chron., frequently in Ælfric, who here often retains the construction on + acc.

Bo. shows only on + acc.:

he ne meahte, ne nan mon, on þone timan þa spræce to nanum ende bringan. Bo. 246. 30.

hi nyston nænne oðerne god on þæne timan, buton hiora cyningas hi weorðedon for godas. Bo. 194. 15 (B.).

Chron. shows on + acc. only, except in late MSS., or in what Thorpe brackets as late insertions in (a):

(scl. he) ferede ðæs bisceopes lic to Bedanforda, forðan ðe he wæs ðær ða abbud on ðone timan. Chron. 224. 7 (bc).

& on ðam timan com Angelcynn to ðisum lande. Chron. 21. 3 (f). (abce have here on heora dagum.)

Ælfric shows on + acc., on + dat., and (rarely) dat. without prep. :

Ðyses godspelles anginn hrepode ures Hælendes prowunge, peah-hwæðere ne ðrowade he na on ðysne timan. S. C. 152. 27.

So: on ðone timan 244. 15, on hwilcne timan 82. 7, on ælcne timan 252. 14, on sumne timan Gram. 123. 17.

Se halga heap befran Crist, hwæðer he wolde on þam timan pisne mid-dangeard geendian. S. C. 298. 10.

Nu eac on urum timan, gehwær þær halige men hi restað, æt heora deadum banum God wyrceð fela wundra. S. C. 292. 15. And so commonly on + dat., 208. 1, 224. 29, etc., etc.

We lybbað mislice on twelf monðum; nu sceolon we ure gymeleaste on pysne timan geinnian, and lybban Gode, we ðe oðrum timan us sylfum leofodon. S. C. 180. 18.

NOTE. O. uses tima after ymbe (186. 33, 188. 7, 282. 34), but not after on.

Dæg.

C. P. shows regularly on + dat. (or loc., dæg); instr. without prep. only in connection with ælc, and on + acc. (except for the unproved dæg) not at all:

se hine wile selfne bedælan ðære bledsunge & ðæs weolan on ðæm ytemestan dæge. C. P. 333. 4.

hu ða kyningas ðe ðone onwald hæfdon on ðam dagum Gode ond his ærendwrecum hersumedon. C. P. 3. 5.

swa swa ðæt leohfæt lieht on nicht urum eagum, ðætte ða gewritu on dæg liechten urum mode. C. P. 365. 16.

ðæt hi ælce dæg beoð on ðæm gefeohte ðisses andweardan lifes. C. P. 431. 2.

O. likewise shows no sure acc. of dæg after on, but frequent dat., and in the singular the instr. without prep.—only the latter when ælc is used.

& (scl. hie) wendon ðæt hie on ðæm dæge sceoldon habban ðone mæstan sige. O. 190. 5. So: on ðæm ilcan dæge 92. 7.

he was eallra monna mildheortast on ðæm dagum. O. 242. 20—and so commonly, equivalent to ðissum tidum in Bede.

. . . ðy ilcan dæge ðe hiene mon to consule dyde. O. 245. 8.

& ælce dæg mon com unarimedlice oft to ðæm senatum & him sædon. . . . O. 88. 11.

Bo. shows one proved acc. after on, on dagum once, gio dagum once, and ælc dæg frequently:

Ac hio (i. e. sio sunne) ne bið ðeah py near ðære sæ (i. e. at sunset) ðe hio bið on midne dæg. Bo. 214. 28 (B.).

... ðæm miclan flode ðe giu on Noes dagum wæs. Bo. 50. 6.
hwæt pu geherdest ðætte gio dagum gelomp, þæt . . . Bo. 66. 27.
nu he eow ælce dæg toweardes on et. Bo. 210. 28 (B). So 94. 1.
Ac him bið swa ðæm fuglum & ðæm diorum þe magon bet locian on niht ponne on dæg. Bo. 206. 4.

ðone forman Easterdæg 24. 25.

The Tanner MS. shows in dæge, in dagum; on ðinum dagum (in diebus tuis) once, 354. 31; but in the great majority of cases the instr. (or dat.) without prep.:

Ealle ðas wæron endebyrdlice in his dæge biscophada brucende (sub rege Wulfhere). B. 240. 17.

Swelce eac in ðæm ilcum dagum ne sceal him bewered beon ðæm geryne onfon (in eisdem diebus). B. 78. 30.

ða gelomp sume dæge, ðæt he . . . (die quadam). B. 262. 27.

ðæt hie ðæt dydon ðy dæge ðe his gemynddæg wære (die depositionis eius). B. 374. 27.

Ond eallum þam dagum buton Sunnandagum he afæste to æfenes, swa swa his ðeaw wæs (quibus diebus cunctis). B. 230. 30.

Chron. also shows acc. very rarely (a. 1, b. 1, c. 2, d. 2, e. 1), dat. frequently, after on; and instr. without prep. commonly, in all MSS., especially with pronominal adjectives:

Her Tanbryht wæs gehadod to ærcebisc., on ðone feowertegan dæg ofer midne winter. Chron. 88. 18. (abcd).

. . . forðferde . . . on Cildamæsse dæge. 220. 10. (a).

. . . on his dagum . . . 96. 13. (abcdef).

. . . ðæt hit him gearo wære, swa hwelce dæge swa hie hit habban wolden.
142. 33. (abcde.)

& hi mon eac mid oðrum floccum sohte, mæstra daga ælce. 164. 29.
(abcd.)

Ælfric shows on + acc. not often (proved acc. noted 3 times; on . . . dæg, in compounds, occurs but is indeterminate), regularly on + dat. For inst. (dat.) without preposition, see note.

On ðone oðerne dæg com Paulus into ðære byrig. S. C. 374. 27.

And Crist aras of deaðe on pone easterlican sunnan-dæg. S. C. 216. 33.
meridie on midne dæg. Gram. 236. 15.

“Nu on sunnan-dæg, mines æristes dæge, þu cymst to me.” S. C. 74. 17, seems to show that dæg in compounds after on—Ælfric does not show
-dæge in compounds—is felt not to be acc.

interdiu on dæg. Gram. 237. 4.

On ðam oðrum dæge eode se apostol be ðære stræt, þa ofseah he . . .

on ðysum dægðerlicum dæge S. C. 28. 26, on þam priddan dæge 28. 4.

þa ealdan Romani, on hæðenum dagum, ongunnon þæs geares ymbryne on ðysum dæge. S. C. 98. 19.

Note.—In: “Ic eom mid eow eallum dagum, oð þisre worulde geendunge.” S. C. 310. 19, and the same quotation, 600. 17, the dat. without prep. may be a mark of earlier biblical style; it is the only instance of dæg in this construction in vol. I. of Ælfric’s Homilies.

Neaht, Niht.

A proved acc. of this word after the prep. is very rare. Only two examples have been found, both in Bede, one after on and one after in: Ða ongan heo semninga on midde neaht cleopian (circa mediam noctem). B. 286. 12; & in forewearde neaht forðferde (primo tempore noctis). B. 422. 28.

Dat. without prep. is also extremely rare except in Bede, where it is of frequent occurrence, in accordance with Bede’s general tendency; elsewhere niht, neaht appears regularly in the dat. after the prep.

hwæðer hit wære ðe dæg ðe niht. C. P. 427. 31.

Ac ðære ilcan niht ðe mon on dæg hæfde ða burg mid stacum gemearcod, . . . wulfas atugan ða stacas up. O. 226. 17.

So: ðære ilcan niht. O. 236. 12.

These are the only instances of dat. without prep. observed outside of Bede.

. . . ðætte ðære seolfan neohte ða brohton ban ut awunedon (ipsa nocte). B. 182. 23.

So: ðære neahte (nocte illa). B. 184. 14, 342. 26, etc.

Hwæt we don scylen on ðisse niht, ðæt is ðis andwearde lif. C. P. 365. 14.

. . . ðæm kokkum ðe on ðistрум niehtum crawað. C. P. 459. 31.

Þrie wulfas on anre niht brohton anes deades monnes lichoman binnan ða burg. O. 160. 20.

þa wæs in ðære seolfan nihte, þætte se ælmihtiga Dryhten hire forðfore in oðrum mynstre . . . mid sweotolre gesyhðe wæs geeaðmeded to onwreone (qua . . . nocte). B. 338. 31. So, with in: (ipsa nocte) 114. 9, 174. 11.

Weox seo adl sticcemælum & sona on ðære ilcan niht hefigre gefremed wæs (nocte superveniente). B. 378. 26. So: (eadem nocte) 410. 10.

Þa geseah he semninga on middre niht sumne mon . . . (intempestæ noctis silentio). B. 128. 15.

ðy læs he on niht onweg fluge and bestæle (noctu). B. 326. 21.

Bede uses both on and in, except in the phrase on niht without adj. or other modifier, which does not show in.

Chron. has on ðære nihte once, 240. 2. (cdef), and on niht often:

se here hiene on niht up bestæl, & oferhergeade alle Cent eastwearde. Chron. 130. 17. (abcde).

Ælfric has on niht and on . . . nihte:

Ac se stranga Samson aras on midre nihte and gelæhte ða burgh geatu. S. C. 226. 17; on ðære nihte 504. 21, on middere nihte 246. 33.

ða on niht com him to Godes engel. S. C. 230. 21.

Very rarely there appears a form that looks like the acc., without preposition:

ða wæs he sume niht on anum nicealtan huse. O. 286. 29.

ða eode he sume neahte on ise unwærlice, þa gefeoll he semninga on his earm ufan, & ðone swiðe geðræste & gebræc (noctu). B. 156. 17.

ond æghwelce niht ofer his byrgenne heofonlic leoht wæs æteawed (omni nocte). B. 90. 30.

but is rather to be explained as fem. instr. (see p. 36, note), as dating by simple acc. is otherwise unknown in the texts read.

Morgen, Æfen.

MS. (f) of the Chron. affords one, S. C. two and Ælf. Gr. one proved acc. of morgen after on: on ærne morgen Chron. 61. 9. (f), on ærne merigen S. C. 286. 33, 458. 20, Ælf. Gram. 234. 19.

MSS. (b) and (c) prove the acc. for æfen twice after on, and MS. (a) gives one instance of acc. after in: . . . wæs gefullod on ðone halgan æfen Pentecosten Chron. 42. 8. (bc), (where (a) has in ðone halgan æfen); Her com Æðelflæd Myrcna hlæfdige, on ðone halgan æfen Inventione Sce. Crucis, to Scergeate. Chron. 186. 7. (bc).

But morgen and æfen have commonly no determining word. No instances of accompanying adj. in the dat. appear, and no instances of the construction in the instr. without prep. The forms (ær)morgen, morgenne, morne, marne, (ær)mergen, merigen are found after the prep. Bede has regularly æfenne (dat.) and Ælfric æfen (probably locative).

Bede uses on, not in before these words: in ærmorgen (mane primo) 402. 10 is the only exception noted.

Seasons of the year: sumor, winter, lencten, hærfest.

Only Boethius and the Chron. show these words in the acc.

after on, and then almost always with some word (midne, foreweardne) showing what part of the season is meant.

Ne miht ðu win wringan on midne winter, ðeah ðe wel lyste wearmes mustes (Fox, presumably from Junius' reading of Cott.; Bodl. has here on medde winter;—comp. noun in the acc.?) Bo. 10. 31.

on lencen hit grewð, & on hærfest hit fealwæð. Bo. 74. 22 (B).

on lengten. Bo. 234. 18 (B), 8. 7 (B).

Her hiene bestæl se here on midne winter ofer tuelftan niht to Cippanhamme. Chron. 146. 19. (abcde).

on forewerdne winter. 172. 18. (bc).

. . . & ða burh ðær getimbrede, on foreweardne sumor. 186. 28. (bc).

on foreweardne sumor. 186. 31. (bc).

on hærfest. 190. 18. (abcd), 194. 34. (a), 227. 25. (d).

Otherwise on + dat., or instr. without prep. :

Bede shows only on, never in, before these words.

Gear.

Gear is found in the acc. after on only once in the texts read, Chron. 192. 5. (bcd): Her heo befeat on hire geweald . . . on foreweardne gear . . . ða burh æt Legraceastre. Note that here again the part of the year is indicated.

Elsewhere gear is construed in the dat. after on, in the instr. after on, and (most often) in the instr. without preposition: brengð eorðe ælcne westm & ælc tudor ælce geara. Bo. 234. 14 (B).

& ðæs on ðæm æfterran geare he gefor O. 268. 23. So on + dat.: O. 60. 17, 102. 26, 180. 24, etc., B. 20. 1 (Ca.), S. C. 60. 3. Her on ðys geare, ymb Ðy geara Fiaminius se consul forseah ða sægene ðe ða hlyttan him sædon. O. 184. 26.

þa wæs ymb syx hund wintra & feower & hundeachtig æfter þære Drihtenlecan menniscnesse, py geara, pætte Ecgfrið Norðanhymbra cýning sende weorod & fyrd in Hibernia. B. 356. 18.

& ðy ilcan geara hie fuhton wið Brettas. Chron. 26. 20 (abce). So commonly instr. without prep. in O., B. and Chron.

Sið.

Sið, besides the meaning "journey," has a secondary meaning "time," measuring recurrence. In this latter sense it is commonly construed in the instr. without prep., but occasionally in the acc. after on.

ða hie sume siðe druncne æt heora symble sæton. O. 130. 25.

. . . & seldon, buton maran symbelnessum & tidum oðpe maran nyðbearfe, ma ðonne æne siðe on dæge pæt heo wolde mete pyrgan (semel). B. 318. 22.

"Ge synd mine bearn, ða ðe ic nu oðre siðe geeacnige, oðpæt Crist beo on eow geedniwod." S. C. 492. 12.

The following are the only instances of sið in the acc. after on in the texts read :

. . . & geðohte his misdæda, . . . hwæt he hæfde Godes ðeowum on oftsiðas to laðe gedon. O. 290. 29.

se (i. e. Neron) bet æt sumum cyrre forbærnan ealle Rome burh on ænne sið æfter þære bisene pe gio Trogia burg barn. Bo. 58. 3 (B).

. . . & ðær wurdon gescipode, swa ðæt hie asettan hi on anne sið ofer mid horsum mid ealle. Chron. 162. 20 (abcdef).

Ðy ilcan geara wæs gesewen blodig wolcen on oftsiðas. Chron. 234. 12 (c).

Sæl.

Sæl, in a sense similar to that of sið just considered, appears occasionally in the acc. after on :

forðon ðe heora wise on nænne sæl wel ne gefor, naðer ne innan . . . ne utane. O. 164. 13.

quandoque on sumne sæl. Ælf. Gr. 232. 5.

aliquotiens on sumne sæl. Ælf. Gr. 286. 15.

Dægred appears at least once in the acc. after on: he micle hludor singð on uhtan ðonne on dægred. C. P. 461. 2.

On last = finally, on symbol = continuously, on (ealra) worulda woruld = for ever and ever, are fixed phrases with the value of simple adverbs:

& nu on last þu sædes þæt yfel nære nauht. Bo. 164. 30.

forðon hie on symbol wið Romanum sibbe heoldon. O. 186. 3.

forðan ðe ure behat, þe us God behet, ðurhwunað â on worulda butan ende. S. C. 204. 25.

Lif.

Lif appears in the dat. and frequently in the instr., after on, but not in the acc.:

& ða lean bið on ðæm ecean life ðæs ðe we to gode doð. C. P. 387. 19.

hu he nyttoð meahste beon his nihstum on ðys eorðlican life. C. P. 49. 14.
So: on ðys andweardan life. C. P. 161. 22.

ic wat ðæt nan swa god (man) ne leofað swa he is on ðeosan life. O. 242. 23.

. . . ge on þis andweardan life ge on þæm toweardan. Bo. 212. 24 (B. and Junius).

on þis andweardan life. Bo. 34. 15, 188. 13.

ðæt he on ðyssum life hundteontigfealdlice mede onfenge, & on ðære toweardan wearolde ecce lif. B. 450. 5 (O).

Other words are construed in the dat. after on, in, or in the instr. without prep., to denote "time when."

& on ðære hwile ðe he ðær winnende wæs, frefelice hiene gesohte Minoth(e)o. O. 130. 9.

ðæt ge fæstun & weopun on ðæm fiftan & on ðæm siofoðan monðe. C. P. 315. 25.

ne wæron cyrican getimbrode ne fulwihstowe in ðæm fruman ðære acendan cirican (in exordio). B. 140. 20.

ðy eahteðan indictione (indictione viii—in the date of the Proceedings of the Hatfield Synod). B. 310. 17.

Note. "Time when" rendered by the genitive.

Dæges, nihstes, "by night," "by day," are found in all texts. The Chronicle shows an extension of this construction to the words gear, hærfest, sumor, winter, as a variant means of dating:

ðæs geares wurdon viiii. folcgefoht gefohten. Chron. 140. 27. (abcde); & ðæs geares . . . 140. 36. (abcde).

ða oðres geares forðferdon twa abbodessan 236. 7. (c).

ða ðæs for hraðe, ðæs ilcan sumeres, for Eadweard . . . to Passanhamme. 195. 6. (a).

ða æfter ðam, ðæs ilcan sumeres, gegadorode micel folc hit on Eadweardes anwalde. 194. 28. (a).

ðæs ilcan wintra (ade., wintres bc). 146. 31.

This construction is by no means so common as that with the instr., and seems to have no distinct value.

II. "Time within which."

The period of time within the limits of which something is done is rendered by in, on + dat.

se færlīca deað he on lytelre hwile bereafode ðæs ðe hi on langre hwile mid unryhte strindon. C. P. 333. 16.

& hu (he) gegaderode on ðan ærran syfan gearan mid hys wisdomes, ðæt he ða æfteran syfan gear eall ðæt folc gescylde wið ðone miclan hungor. O. 34. 11.

Wulfstan sæde ðæt he gefore of Hæðum, ðæt he wære on Truso on syfan dagum & nihtum. O. 19. 33.

. . . pæt eall se dæl se ðe ðæs treowes on twelf monðum gewexð pæt he onginð of ðæm wyrtruman. Bo. 148. 35.

ðæt he symle in ðæm feowertiglecan fæstenne ær Eastrum æne siðe in dæge gereorde (semel in die). B. 244. 23.

& he ða in medmicelre tiide micel folc Drihtne begeat (paucis sub tempore). B. 222. 30.

& seldon . . . ma ðonne æne siðe on dæge pæt heo wolde mete pycgan (semel per diem). B. 318. 22.

. . . licade us eallum gemænelice, pætte in Agustus Kalende æne siða on gere seonoð gesomnode in stowe, seo is genemned Clofeshoh (semel in anno). B. 278. 26.

Min ðrowung geendað on anum dæge, oððe on twam, oððe be ðam mæstan on prim; soðlice ðin cwyling ne mæg binnon ðusend geara to ende gecuman. S. C. 594. 24.

And Crist aras of deaðe on pone easterlican sunnan-dæg, þe nu bið on seofon nihtum. S. C. 216. 33.

Ælfric uses this construction occasionally where we should expect the acc. of duration:

& (scl. heo) wæs on eallum þam fyrste wunigende binnan þam Godes temple. S. C. 146. 26.

So: on ðære hwile. S. C. 216. 28.

III. Time "how long."

Cf. Wulfing I. §93. Wulfing is misleading in I. §119. b. He says: "Der Akk. antwortet auf die Frage 'wann,'" and gives examples that belong under §119. a. "wie lange."

Duration of a state or activity is expressed by the acc. without preposition:

Her wæs seo sunne aðeostred ane tid dæges. Chron. 150. 6. (abcd).

ða wæs sume hwile Godes ege on mancynne æfter þam flode. S. C. 22. 17.

The following looks an acc. of "time within which": & sum his fultum worhte ða burg ða hwile æt Heorotforda on suð healfe

Lygean. Chron. 186. 24. (abcd); but if worhte here was felt to have the value of mod. "worked at" rather than "built," the construction is quite regular.

Bede shows one indisputable instance of dat. of duration of time: he wæs micelre tide in Ibernian wuniende 168. 28.

SUMMARY:

in, on + acc., in, on + dat. or instr., instr., loc. or dat. without prep., and gen., in time-phrases.

1. Prep. + acc.

a. is found only with the singular of the noun (with the exception of oftsiðas, and perhaps tide in Bede—in ða tide (tempore) B. 232. 19, in gelimplice tide (hora competenti) B. 342. 27—the latter probably instr. fem., the former possibly acc. sing.).

b. is preferred for denoting the part of the period intended, see p. 41.

2. Prep. + dat. or instr.

a. has no apparent difference in meaning from prep. + acc.

b. dat. is preferred to instr., as the latter is felt to be sufficient without prep. (but life is regularly instr. after on).

c. prep. + dat. is used distinctively for "time within which."

3. Instr. and dat. without prep.

a. is of variable frequency in different texts, most common in Bede and the Chron.; instr. as proved by pronominal or adjective forms is not found in the portions of Ælfric read.

b. agrees for the most part with the Latin in Bede, but cannot be shown to be derived therefrom.

4. Genitive: rare except for dages and nihðes, and seems to have no distinct value except in these words.

5. In and on.

Bede uses both, preferring in before tid and showing only on before morgen, æfen. Chron. (a) shows in occasionally before tid.

For to, æt, for in time-phrases see under those prepositions.

IN VERSUS ON.

See Miller's Bede, Introd. pp. xxxiii ff.*

The prep. in is so rare in C. P., Bo. and Ælfric that it may be considered accidental. I find it five times in C. P.: in Hierusalem, 385. 22, in Ageas bocum 343. 18, in Essaies bocum 329. 22, in ðæs monnes mode 155. 22, in ðe 445. 21; twice in Bo.: in anwald 2. 4 (B), in boccræftum 2. 13; once in Ælf.: in ealra worulda woruld S. C. 618. 35.

* Where figures will be found for other texts as well.

In O. it is more frequent; in + acc. ten times, in + dat. twenty-four times, all of geographical position except 14. 24 Albani hi sint genemde in Latina (scl. lingua? probably, as Latina is not Ags.).

MSS. (d.) (e.) and (f.) of the Chron. show in a number of times, but as they are generally acknowledged to be late and to represent no dialect in purity, they are not here considered. MS. (a) (Parker MS.), on the other hand, having long been considered the best representative of the original W. S. Chronicle, is of more interest. It shows in + acc. seven times where (b) and (c) (and sometimes other MSS.) show on: 24. 27, 26. 11, 12, 32. 20, 36. 17, 42. 8, 68. 20; and in + dat. fifteen times where (b) and (c) have on: 8. 22, 12. 2, 17, 22. 4, 26. 29, 28. 37, 32. 38, 34. 8, 46. 3, 7, 54. 19, 68. 19, 128. 5, 148. 27, 166. 24. This occurrence is restricted to no particular idiom; in + acc. of place 5 times, of resultant parts once, of time once; in + dat. of that which contains once, of geographical place 11 times, partitive (in ðæm here weorðuste) once, of time twice. This is of course a very small number in proportion to the number of times on occurs, yet shows that in this particular (b) and (c) are nearer the W. S. norm than (a), and contributes slightly to the confirmation of Mr. Howorth's theory, put forth in the Athenæum for Sept. 20, 1879, that the Parker MS. is Mercian, not W. S. (b) and (c) show in twice, both in Latin phrases: in Epheso 12. 24, in Gallia 16. 15.

In predominates in Bede, i. e. in the Tanner MS. and MS. C., which Miller prints as far as they go, vacancies being supplied from other MSS. which use regularly on. But there are certain categories in which MS. T. uses on to the exclusion of in, or in which on is preferred to in. These are:

in, on + acc. I. 1. a. on hand gan, sellan &c.

“ “ I. 2. surface on which.

“ “ I. 2. a. hostile motion.

“ “ II. 1. on hond, on healfe.

“ “ II. 4. on wisan, on riht.

in, on + dat. I. 1. on honda.

“ “ I. 2, surface on which.

“ “ I. 4. after verbs of depriving.

“ “ I. 9. measure of distance.

in, on in time-phrases : on morgen, æfen.

So that the use of in and on in Bede is in general that of the present day—in of that which contains, on of that “on,” “upon” which. A tendency to the use of on in short fixed phrases is observable. Bede also agrees with the Vespasian Ps. in using on where the Latin has not in.

The relation of the Ags. to the Latin of Bede will doubtless be thoroughly treated in Prof. Miller's forthcoming second volume. The Latin correspondences given here are sufficient to show that the Latin idiom does not, as a rule, override the English in the matter of cases, slavish as the translation is in many respects.

COMPOUNDS.

The adverbs in(n), up(p), directive ; inne, uppe, innan, uppan, locative, combine in varying degrees of closeness with on (not with in) to form new prepositions ; and innan, uppan are occasionally prepositions themselves, i. e. take cases.

There seems to be some confusion between in . . . on and innan, upp . . . on and uppan. The separated forms should, and for the most part do, retain the values of adverb and preposition distinct ; but sometimes in on, up on are interchanged with innan, uppan.

These compounds are subject to the same rules for the following case as the simple preposition, except when there is confusion of the compound with the adverb in -an in prepositional use.

innan, adverb :

ne puhte he him innon swa fæger swa he utan pohte. Bo. 116. 24 (B.)

innan, preposition :

& ðæt sar innan ðære wambe, ðæt tacnað ða sorge ðæs modes. C. P. 259. 16.

innan for in on :

pu eart nu fulneah cumen in on (C., innon B.) ða ceastre pære soðan gesælðe. Bo. 158. 9. So (B.) has innon + acc. for in on + acc. of (C.), Bo. 140. 18, 148. 31.

. . . for se here of Wīrhealan innan Norðwealas. Chron. 170. 40. (bcd.) (in on (a)).

So innan + acc.: Chron. 174. 8. (acd.; on + dat. b.), 134. 4. (abcd.; in on e.), 166. 6. (bcd.; (in on a.)), 134. 16. (a.; on (bc.)).

on innan :

ic wat pæt ge wenað pæt ge nan gecundelic god ne gesælpa on innan eow selfum næbben. Bo. 44. 16.

uppan, adverb :

Holh wæs beboden ðæt sceolde beon on ðam weobude uppan. C. P. 219. 4.

uppan, preposition :

"And ic timbrige mine cyrcan uppon ðisum stane." S. C. 368. 17.
cf.: suelce ic hine bære uppe on minum hrycge. C. P. 153. 12.

uppan for up on :

Pa for-arn he ðam Hælende, and stah uppon an treow, pæt he hine geseon mihte. S. C. 580. 31.

Ælfric makes no distinction between uppan and up on :

up on + acc. 2, + dat. 4; upon + acc. 1; upp on + acc. 4; uppon + acc. 2, + dat. 6; uppan + acc. 2, + dat. 3, in Thorpe's print of Ælfric's Hom. vol. I.

on uppan :

He sarette ðætte ða synfullan sceoldon bytlan on uppan his hrycge. C. P. 153. 10.

TO.

To has the idea of direction as its basic notion, and this sense is apparent in all its uses. In expressing physical relations it approaches the value of in, on + acc.; while in its use to express purpose it approaches the meaning of for. The difference in value, however, between to and in, on, with verbs of motion is almost always perceptible. The sense of location is never absent in in, on (faintest, perhaps, with verbs of hostile motion), while the idea of location in to is rare, and then only apparent, being due to a process of mental ellipsis.

To takes the dat. and instr. cases, and in a few phrases the gen.

Note. The acc. after to: to mec spræcende (ad me). B. 402. 13, to hie eode (ad eam). B. 382. 29—is quite abnormal, and doubtless un-English. Cf. & pær æfter to omnes sanctos Bliðmod bidde. Gr.-Wlkr. II. 278. (8. 22.) Other instances of too close dependence on the Latin will be noted further on.

The dat. of ind. obj. is a construction in full vigor in Ags. With the decay of inflection the construction has fallen into disuse, and is generally replaced by to in mod. Engl. But in Ags. to seldom has this value. Certain verbs show the beginning of the change; cweðan, for instance, takes to + dat. of person spoken to, where Gothic uses ind. object: ik qiþa izwis Matt. V. 28. etc.; but secgan uses only ind. obj. It is assumed that the relation of ind. obj. is rendered by the simple dat. except in the categories here given for to. Many verbs (e. g. bringan) regularly construed with the ind. obj. admit also to + dat. as an alternative, for distinction or emphasis.

I. After verbs of motion, that toward which, that which is the object of the motion, is put in the dat. after to.

The preposition is often separated from its case and put with the verb, either immediately before or after it; which is in character with the purely directive nature of to in this use, merely complementary to and emphasizing the case value.

1. Person to whom (but not with verbs of "hostile motion," cf. in, on + acc. I. 2. a).

Intransitive verbs, of coming and going, show both ind. obj. and to + dat., but prefer to; transitive verbs, such as bringan, sendan, prefer ind. obj.; verbs less purely of motion—giefan, sellan—hardly admit to.

. . . ðæt we hine læden to sumum ricum menn. C. P. 63. 2.

ða hit (i. e. Pompey's head) mon to him brohte (ad se). O. 242. 18.

ðonne seo leo bringð his hongregum hwelpum hwæt to etanne. O. 142. 24.

swa bið eac þæs wisan med þe mære þe him wraðre wyrd & reðre to becymð. Bo. 238. 13.

oððe hwæðer him cume þe reðu wyrd þe liðu. Bo. 238. 9.

ðæt he scolde of middangearde to Drihtne feran (ad dominum) B. 262. 26.

(scl. he) eode to ðæm biscope & to ðam papan (ad pontificem). B. 96. 33.

& ðæs ymb iii. wiccan com se cyning to him. Chron. 148. 25. (a).

oð him mara faltum to com. Chron. 194. 16. (a).

Nu wundrað gehwa hu se deofol dorste genealæcan to ðam Hælende. S. C. 166. 32.

þa ða he gesæt, þa genealæhton his leorning-cnihtas him to. S. C. 548. 13.

to appears occasionally in O. with verbs expressing hostile motion: Raðe æfter ðæm com Darius mid firde to Alexandre (i. e. against him, with hostile intent, as proved by the context) O. 124. 33.; but the hostility is not expressed by to, any more than it would be by towards in mod. Engl., whereas the use of on shows that the motion is one of attack.

2. Place to, toward which.

To is used regularly before names of towns, and other places and objects considered as points to be reached; countries entered, on the other hand, are construed in the acc. after on, in. Names of peoples in the plural may present either the idea of country or of persons, and so appear in both constructions. To + dat. of region entered is exceptional.

he ðonne sceal fleon to anra ðara ðreora burga ðe to friðstowe gesette sint. C. P. 167. 2.

Ðu slawa, ga ðe to æmetthylle. C. P. 191. 25.

cyðað minum broðrum ðæt hie cumen to Galileum. C. P. 43. 20.

& (he) hiene het siððan to Rome bringan. O. 224. 15.

Ac gif ðu æfre cymest on þone weg & to þære stowe þe þu nu geot for-giten hæfst, þonne wilt þu cweðan . . . Bo. 174. 21.

Mid ðy we ða upp cuomon to lande (evadentes ad terram). B. 386. 15.

Oðþo in þam lacum geleafsumra, þe heo to wigbedum & to Godes cirican bringað, hu monige dælas para beon scyle (quæ fidelium oblationibus accedunt altario). B. 64. 7.

Ða com ðæm Deniscum scipum ðeh ær flod to, ær ða cristnan mehton hira ut ascufan. Chron. 176. 37. (abcd).

se gerefa . . . hie wolde drifan to ðæs cyninges tune. Chron. 96. 16. (abcde).

þa cwæð se apostol, Gað to smiððan, and fandiað pises goldes and ðissera gymstana. S. C. 64. 6.

þaða se Hælend to ðære burhscire genealæhte. S. C. 366. 5.

Ða gelamp hit pæt hi genealæhton anre byrig þe is gchaten Hiericho. S. C. 152. 10.

Dat. without prep. is rare here—perhaps only used where there is a sense of “advantage or disadvantage”: . . . ðætte ealre worulde swelce sibbe bringan mehte. O. 106. 34. But genealæcan in Ælfric, as the examples above show, takes dat. with and without to indifferently.

Instr. after to here is rare: gif her ðegna hwelc ðyrelne kylle brohte to ðys burnan. C. P. 469. 10.

3. Verbs of speaking, writing, looking and the like take to + dat. of person spoken, written to, of person or thing looked towards.

a). Verbs of speaking regularly take to: so sprecan, cweðan, cleopian. But secgan as regularly takes dat. without to.

Ða cleopedon his ðegnas him to. C. P. 197. 17.

Ond eac Dryhten cuæð to Noe & to his bearnum. C. P. 109. 5.

ic ne sprece nu no to dysegum monnum, ac sprece to ðæm ðe wel wilniað wisdom ongitan. Bo. 198. 20.

ðæt we him ðonne secgen ðæt hie hæbben wiert gedon. C. P. 209. 16.

Fela he me sæde ymbe Suðseaxe. B. 4. 13.

Secgan to is found only once in the texts read, and that in very late work in the Chronicle: . . . & eac to ðan ðe mid him weran . . . sæde, . . . 136. 24 (f').

Nouns occasionally take this construction:

forðæm he bið Godes boda to ðam folce. C. P. 91. 18.

The verbs mænan, wregan, take to + dat. of person to whom complaint is made:

ða he (i. e. Moyses) gehierde ðæt ðæt folc mænde to him (& Cott.) Arone ymb hiera earfeðo, ða cuæð he. . . . C. P. 201. 4.

Nu secgað wyrdwriteras þæt Herodes betwuce ðisum wearð gewreged to þam Romaniscan casere þe ealne middangeard on þam timan geweold. S. C. 80. 6.

b). The person written to, to whom a message is addressed, is put in the dat. after to:

ða heht se foresprecena papa ærendgewrit writan to Æðelrede & to Ealdfriðe Ongelcyningum. B. 46c. 3.

ða æt nextan he dihte þisne pistol to þære halgan wydewan Paulum. S. C. 436. 19.

The verb sendan shows a distinction between ind. obj. and to + dat. In the simple sense of "send," with object expressed, sendan is followed by ind. obj. of personal pronouns, and sometimes of nouns; while in the sense of "send (to some one for something)" it is always followed by to. In the latter case the object is commonly not expressed.

& he him sende Arrianisce biscepas to lareowum. O. 240. 28.

Cartaginenses sendon fultum Tarentinum. O. 162. 8.

Her sende Gregorius papa Agustino (a; Augustine bcef.) ærcebiscope pallium in Bretene. Chron. 36. 16 (abcef).

ða sendon hie to Philippuse & bædon ðæt. . . . O. 114. 17.

To ðam Lucius Brytene kyning sende stafas, & bæd ðæt he wære cristen gedon. Chron. 14. 9 (abcde).

Nouns of place are construed only after to (except the locative ham). The person or thing sent for is construed in the dat. after æfter: & Mamma his sio gode modor sende æfter Origenise ðæm gelæredestan mæssepreoste. O. 270. 26.

Bede sacrifices this rule to a minute exactness in following the Latin. The ind. obj. after sendan, noted 14 times, never translates ad; to + dat. of person, noted 11 times, translates in almost every instance ad, never a dat. of ind. obj., in the Latin.

c). locian, beseon (cf. in on + acc. I. 2. e.), take to + dat. of that toward which one looks:

& suaðeah for ðære gewilnunge hiera giefernesse hie simle locigeað to ðære eorðan. C. P. 155. 20.

ða beseah he he to fultome ðære godcundan ærfæstnisse. B. 234. 27.

oðre hwile he smeað on his mode ymb ðis eorðlice, oðre hwile ymb ðæt godcundlice, swilce he locie mid oðre eagan to heofonum, mid oðre to eorðan. Bo. 222. 6.

ƿa beseah Petrus to ƿam fleondan dry, ƿus cweðende: "Ic halsige eow awirigede gastas, on Cristes naman, ƿæt ge forlæton ðone dry ðe ge betwux eow feriað." S. C. 380. 21.

The distinction between on and to after these verbs is delicate but real. Locian, beseon with on mean to look upon, with to to look toward, to turn the eyes upon an object (from another object).

4. There is the same extension of to + dat. after verbs of motion to non-physical relations as has already been noted for in, on + acc. So we find to + dat. of state, quality, condition to be attained, of the occasion (as a marriage, a feast) to be attended.

It is in this category that to is most nearly synonymous with in, on. Yet there is scarcely an instance where the two prepositions have the same value; the idea of "direction toward" being expressed by the one, of "resulting in" by the other.

ða he hine ascead of ðam woruldrice & hine gehwyrfde to ungesceadwisum neatum. C. P. 39. 22.

ðætte ða godan lareowas . . . ða niwan & ða ungeleaffullan mod mid hira lare gelæde to ryhtum geleafan. C. P. 171. 14.

ðæt hie under ðære sibbe to ðære mæstan sace become. O. 182. 28.

. . . swa hwa swa mid fulle willan his mod went to ðæm yflum ðe he ær forlet, . . . Bo. 170. 20.

ðæt he mid him cwome to ðæm gefeohte (in proelium). B. 208. 21. So to gefeohte = in proelium 92. 25, 114. 3, 208. 18, although Bede is generally very exact in rendering in by in, ad by to.

hio hwurfon to ðam ærran unsyfernessum (redierunt ad + acc.). B. 356. 2.

And (scl. hi) syrwedon mid micelre smeauge, hu hi mihton hine to deaðe gebringan. S. C. 214. 31.

forðan ðe ic nah geweald, ƿeah hi (i. e. ðas boc) hwa to woge gebringe ðurh lease writeras, and hit bið ðonne his pleoh, na min. Ælf. Gr. 3. 22.—cf. in, on + acc. II. 4. on woh, not found in Ælfric.

Ælc ƿæra ƿe mid geleafan and fulluhte to Gode gebiðð, he cymð to ƿam gyftum; ac he ne cymð na mid gyftlicum reafe, gif he ða soðan lufe ne hylt. S. C. 528. 19.

Veneo ic gange to ceape oððe ic beo geseald. Ælf. Gr. 201. 6.

Fon regularly takes to rice, to ðam anwalde in the sense of "assume the throne," succeed to the government." In the Chron. fon to biscopdome interchanges with onfon biscopdom(e); the better MSS. prefer the latter:

feng to ƿapdome 15. 6. (f)—onfeng bisc. dom (abcde).

feng to ðam bisc. dome 64. 23. (abc).

feng to b. stole 81. 32. (f)—onfeng bisc. dome (abcde).

Fon to is not common in other connections:

... & fon to ðam Godes wisdomes ðe him dysig ðyncð. C. P. 203. 14.

Nu hæbbe we awriten ðære Asian suðdæl; nu wille fon to hire norðdæle.
O. 14. 6.

II. To is used to express direction toward something with a great many verbs that are not strictly verbs of motion, i. e. that do not denote passage from one place to another, but rather tendency, inclination, effort, "moral direction." The following are the most important of these.

Dat of ind. obj. and dat. commodi occur occasionally instead of to. See examples.

1. After verbs of fastening, joining, mingling. (On appears rarely after these verbs, with the distinction already mentioned.)

... ðonne he gebint hine selfne to him mid his wordum. C. P. 193. 2.

... se ðe hine selfne diofle befæst. C. P. 465. 2.

& (scl. Antonius) bebead ðæt hiene mon on ða ilcan byrgenne to hieres swa somcure alegde. O. 246. 31.

ac ic me to ðam pegan gemænde (ludentibus me miscui). B. 400. 15.

Sceawa nu on anum æge, hu þæt hwite ne bið gemenged to ðam geolcan, and bið hwæðere ân æg. S. C. 40. 28.

2. After verbs of belonging (to), pertaining (to):

& ðas land eall hyrað to Denemearcum. O. 19. 36.

& þeah to þæm twæm, þæt is to þære saule & þæm lichoman belimpað ealle þas þæs monnes good, ge gastlicu ge lichomlicu. Bo. 140. 29.

unus (I) ân gebyrað to werlicum hade, una to wiflicum, unum to neutrum. Ælf. Gr. 281. 1.

3. After verbs of subjugating, submitting, praying, converting, reconciling (to), etc.:

he hiene geeaðmedde to ðam folce ðe he him ðær heardost ondred. O. 112. 32.

ðonne heo heora heafod & heora eagan to onheldon & him to gebædon. B. 322. 30.

& Æðelwald sæt binnan ðam ham mid ðam monnum ðe him to gebugon. Chron. 178. 28. (abcd.)

ic wene þæt ic swunce on ydel, ðaða ic eow to Gode gebigde. S. C. 102. 18.

biddan, ask, pray for, takes acc. or from + dat. of person from whom, to + dat. of place from which, something is desired, and gen. of that desired; or acc. of thing and æt + dat. of person (cf. Æt I. 4).

Bryttas to Rome fram Ettio ðam cyninge wæron him fultumes biddende. B. 8. 2.

Hwilc wile sellan his cilde stan, gif hit hine hlafes bitt? S. C. 280. 8.

gebiddan, to offer prayer (as a form of worship), takes to + dat. of that worshipped, and refl. dat. of the worshipper:

ða nolde he him gebiddan to ðæm ælmihtigum Gode. O. 254. 12.

sometimes refl. acc.:

. . . ðæt is ðæt he hine gebidde to ðe. C. P. 273. 16.

refl. sometimes omitted:

forðon hie noldon to him gebiddan swa to heora Gode. O. 132. 3.

secan takes acc. of thing (or person) sought, to + dat. of person from whom it is sought:

Ac ge secað þære hean gecynde gesælða & heora weorðscipe to þæm niðerlicum & to þam hreosendlicum þingum. Bo. 44. 30.

gesecan in O. shows a different construction; acc. of person from whom, refl. dat. com., and to + dat. of that sought (really a phrase of purpose, see III. 1.):

& he siððan gesohte Romane him to friðe. O. 228. 13.

Æfter ðæm Germanie gesohton Agustus ungeniedde him to friðe. O. 250. 14. So 242. 32.

wilnian takes gen. of thing desired, to + dat. of person from whom:

ða wilnedon Cartaine oðre siðe friðes to Romanum. O. 180. 11.

Forðon he (i. e. Æðelhun) þurh gesyhð geleornade, ge hwæs he (i. e. Ecgberht) God bæd & to him wilnade, & ðæt þe his bene gehyrede wæron. B. 244. 9.

(ge)ðingian takes dat. of person for whom, to + dat. of person with whom, reconciliation is made:

We biddað þingunga æt halgum mannum, þæt he sceolon us þingian to heora Drihtne and to urum Drihtne. S. C. 174. 10.

þæm wære mare þearf þe ða oðre unscylde yflað, þæt him mon þingode to ðæm ricum. Bo. 208. 29.

For (ge)secan, wilnian, see also Æt I. 4.

4. After verbs of urging, striving, helping:

ac him gefylste God eft to maran are. O. 288. 8.

. . . ðonne he fundað to ðæm weorðscipe ðæs folgaðes. C. P. 55. 4.

& oft eac mon sceal ðone welegan ofermodan to him loccian mid liðelicre olicunga. C. P. 183. 19.

Sauls heold ðæra leasra reaf, and heora mod to þære staninge geornlice tilhte. S. C. 50. 30.

5. After gewunian, getrymman, gestaðelian, gewissian:

he bið on ofermettu awended, & gewunað to ðæm gielpæ. C. P. 35. 13.

& monige he . . . to Cristes geleafan getrymede (in fide Christi . . . confirmavit). B. 210. 12.

& gewissa me to pinum willan & to minre sawle pearfe bet þonne ic sylf canne ; & gestaðela min Mod to pinum willan & to minre sawle pearfe. Bo. 260. 6. (B).

6. After habban, niman, witan, healdan, acc. of feeling or passion and to + dat. of the object of the feeling :

he sceal habban andan to hira yfele. C. P. 75. 13.

& he him forgeaf ðone nið ðe he to him wiste. O. 250. 15.

Maran lufe nimð se heretoga on gefeohte to ðam cempa, ðe æfter fleame his wiðerwinnan ðegenlice oferwinð, þonne to ðam ðe mid fleame ne ætwand, ne ðeah on nanum gecampe naht ðegenlices ne gefremede. S. C. 342. 23.

peah ðe hit (i. e. ðæt cild) beo gegremod, hit ne hylt langsume ungeþwærnyse to ðam ðe him derode. S. C. 512. 15.

7. Certain adjectives take to + dat. as complement ; so gearo, geornful, strang, stið, &c. :

ne sie he to hræd ne to stið to ðære wrace. C. P. 79. 11.

þonne hi ðære Soðfæstnyse spræce eadmodlice gehyrað, and gearuwe beoð to Lifes bebodum. S. C. 362. 14.

cuð, wilsum, leof, gelic, take complementary dat. without to.

8. To + dat. of that to which distance, degree, extent is reckoned. The preposition here is not so closely connected with the verb as in the cases heretofore considered.

Hu Gallie oferhergodon Romana lond on III. mila to ðære byrg. O. 3. 1.

heo (i. e. seo cwen) gelærde ðone cyning ðæt he hiene (i. e. ðone ðegn) swa upp ahof ðætte he wæs bufan eallum ðæm ðe on ðæm rice wæron to ðæm cyninge (ad summum fastigium provexerat). O. 148. 5.

(scl. Herodes) ofsloh ealle ða hyse-cild . . . fram twywintrum cilde to anre nihte, be ðære tide þe he geaxode æt þam tungelwitegum. S. C. 80. 16.

Oð is more usual in this use :

þa het he acwellan ealle ða hyse-cild þære burhscire, fram twywintrum cilde oð anre nihte. S. C. 82. 11.

& (scl. he) het ænne weall ðwyres ofer eall ðæt lond asettan from sæ oð sæ. O. 270. 14.

9. To + dat. of that given in exchange (cf. in, on + acc. II. 6) appears once :

Heofonan rice wæs alætan pisum foresædum gebroðrum for heora nette and scipe, and eft syððan ðam rican Zacheo to healfum dæle his æhta, and sumere wudewan to anum feorðlinge. S. C. 580. 24.

III. To + dat., instr., or (very rarely) gen. forms a phrase of purpose, of function, and, after verbs of changing, of the resultant form—but not after verbs of dividing, see in, on + acc. I. 6. a. This notion is occasionally rendered by on, in; but outside of Bede this use of on is almost restricted to on edwīt, on bismer, and on fultum in Orosius.

1. The ideas of reason and of purpose, regularly rendered in Ags. by for and to respectively, are very rarely confused.

To in this use is not separable from its case, nor is it interchangeable with the simple dat. The dat. of person interested is commonly added, see examples.

ðis wæs ryht dom on ðære ealdan æ, & is nu us to bispelle. C. P. 43. 18.

hie wiellað ðæt hie hiene eft hæbben on ðæm ecan life betux him & hiera hieremonnum to isernum wealle. C. P. 165. 12.

se wæs of Sicillium him to fultume gefett. O. 174. 20.

gif to ðæm yflum cymð reðu wyrd þonne cymð hio to edleane his yfla, oððe to ðreaunge & to lære þæt he eft swa ne do. Bo. 236. 7.

þonne is ðeaw ðæs apostolican seðles, ðonne heo biscopas halgiað, ðæt him bebodu sellað, ond þætte alles þæs ondlifenes, þe him gegonge, feower dælas beon scyle, an ærest biscope & his heorode for feorme & onfengnesse gæsta & cumena, oðer dæl Godes þeowum, pridda pearfum, seo feorða to edneowunge & to bote Godes ciricum (quattuor debeant fieri portiones: una uidelicet episcopo et familiæ propter hospitalitatem atque susceptionem, alia clero, tertia pauperibus, quarta ecclesiis reparandis). B. 64. 18. Note here that for renders propter—"because of," while to + dat. of purpose renders the Latin gerund. dat. of purpose.

& seo ðeod gesohte Ecgbryht cyning him to friðe & to mundboran. Chron. 110. 36 (abcde).

ac ðonne fela ðæra foresædra tacna gefyllede sind, nis nan twynung þæt þa feawan ðe þær to lafe sind witodlice gefyllede beon. S. C. 610. 14.

Ic gegaderige in to þe of deorcynne, and of fugelcynne symbel gemacan, þæt hi eft to fostre beon. S. C. 20. 35.

aries byð ram betwux sceapum and ram to wealgeweorce. Ælf. Gr. 12. 5.

Eac ic hierde to soðum secgan, cwæð Orosius, ðæt. . . . O. 138. 18.

a. The inflected infinitive is regularly construed after to, forming a phrase of purpose or intention. That to + infl. infin. is also used as subject, even in C. P., the following sentence shows: Eac is to witanne ðætte hwilum bið god wærlice to miðanne his hieremonna scylda & to licettanne suelce he hit nytte. C. P. 151. 8. Cf. Wūlfing I, §498, c.

2. Verbs of becoming, appointing, changing, take to + dat. of resultant form or state. So don, gedon, nimam, ge-, forscieppan, gewyrcean; gaderian, geotan; ceosan, geceosan, hadian, halgian, gesettan; weorðan; awendan, and others:

To ealdormenn ðu eart gesett. C. P. 119. 22.

Ðætte his godan dæda ne weorðen to yfelum dædum. C. P. 21. 22.

hu Brettanie namon Maximianum him to casere ofer his willan. O. 7. 12.

he het cristenra monna ehtan, & monege gedyde to halgum martyrum. O. 274. 5.

. . . pær þa good gegadrade bioð swelce hi sien to anum wegge gegoten. Bo. 146. 20.

Ðæt he Augustinus Mellitum & Justum to biscopum gehalgode. B. 10. 30.

Ða gehadode he hine Eastseaxum to biscope. B. 226. 17.

& se here . . . hine geces synderlice him to hlaforde & to mundboran. Chron. 195. 20 (a).

Ac se ðe his ðeawas mid anmodnysse, purh Godes fultum, swa awent, he bið ðonne to oðrum menn geworht. S. C. 360. 8.

He awende wæter to wine. S. C. 26. 8.

God gesceop to mæran engle þone þe nu is deofol; ac God ne gesceop hine na to deofle. S. C. 12. 19.

Adjectives, however, appear after these verbs in predicate construction, nom. or acc., as in mod. Engl. :

(scl. se ðe) nauðer ne ðone folgað self nytne gedon nyle, ne ðone tolætan ðe hine . . . nytwyrðne & wæsðmbærne gedon wille. C. P. 337. 16.

tenuis ic gewanige oððe ic do sum þing pinre. Ælf. Gr. 137. 8.

3. After halgian, hadian, in the Chron. is found to + dat. of place to which one is consecrated, in which one is to serve; whence to sometimes seems to be equivalent to æt or on :

se wæs ærest to Dorkeceastre to leodbisceope gehalgod, & eft to Eoferwiceastre. Chron. 222. 18 (bc).

Her wæs gehadod Beornmod bisc. to Hrofesceastre. Chron. 106. 10 (abc).

& man gehalgode Æðelberht to Eoforwic, & Alchmund to Hagustaldes ee. Chron. 91. 17 (def).

4. Tellan, talian, gedon and like verbs take to + dat. (rarely instr.) of that to which something is to be reckoned :

ðonne ne talode se ofermoda Phariseus to sua micle mægene ða forhæfdnesse sua he dyde. C. P. 313. 5.

pæt wit gereah-ton to goodum, pæt folciscum monnum yfel ðuhte. Bo. 248. 6.

þa ne sint furðum to woroldgodum to tellanne, ac to godcundum. Bo. 82. 29.

5. To + instr. of purpose scarcely occurs except in the phrases to ðon, to ðy, anticipating a clause.

The dat. (to ðæm) is also used with the same value, particularly in C. P. and Bo.

O. and B. use only to ðon; Cott. MS. of Bo. prefers to ðon, Bodl. MS. to ðam; C. P. prefers to ðæm (noted 8 times; to ðon 5 times); Ælfric uses to ðy (to ði) almost exclusively, to ðam being found but once in S. C.—614. 8. Ði without prep. also appears once, 456. 13. Chron. has no distinctive use; to ðon, (a), to ðam, (bcd), to ðan, (e), 6. 6; to ði 41. 21 (f).

to hwon, interrogative, occurs 4 times in Bo.

6. An extension of the notion of purpose is found in the phrases of degree: to ðæm, to ðon, to ðæs.

C. P. shows to ðon here more often, proportionally to to ðæm, than in the phrase of purpose: to ðon 67. 24, 295. 10, 383. 21, 391. 4; to ðæm 271. 4, 319. 17, 459. 11; to hwon "at all" 417. 35; to ðæs 345. 8.

Bo. shows to ðon and to ðæm in about equal ratio; the two MSS. make no distinction here. to ðæs (lytel) occurs once, Bo. 80. 24.

Bede shows to ðon and to ðæs, the former regularly, the latter 4 times and only with adjectives: to ðæs heard & to ðæs stænihte. 366. 17, to ðæs mycel 28. 11, to ðæs gedyrstig 114. 30.

Ælfric shows only to ðan, making a clear distinction between phrase of purpose (to ðy) and phrase of degree.

7. To + gen. hardly appears except in phrases of degree and in time-phrases, see IV. C. P., however, shows the phrases to ðances, to unðances:

ðætte hie nanwuht godes ne magon ða hwile Gode bringan to ðances.
C. P. 349. 8.

ða ageaf he hit (i. e. ðæt feoh) to unðances. 379. 9.

Cf. heora agnes ðances "of their own free will, on their own account," Bo. 18. 13. (B). The gen. after the prep. is probably not an original Ags. idiom, but due to confusion of to + instr. with simple adverbial gen.

Note. The following are specimens of the close rendering of ad by to in Bede; they do not fall under the categories established for the other texts:

... ðæt hi ða æfestnesse geleornad & onfongen hæfdon to bysene ðære halgan Romaniscan cyrican (ad exemplum). B. 468. 11.

He ða ðone onfongnan biscophad to onhyrenisse ðara eadigra apostola mid weorcum gastlicra mægena frætweode (ad imitationem). B. 368. 27.

IV. To is used also in time-phrases, with the dat., instr. and gen. cases. The sense of direction is still present, even in to dæg.

1. Time when.

To dæg(e), to mergen (morgen, -ne), have the same value as in mod. English. That the original value of to in these phrases is that of direction in time, not that of purpose as Skeat seems to imply, is evident from the following examples :

ic eom clæne & unscyldig nu giet to dæg eowres ælces blodes. C. P. 379. 14.

seo stow gewearð swiðe mære, & giet to dæge is. O. 120. 21.

Ga, & cum to morgenne (Hatt.; morgen Cott.), ðonne selle ic ðe hwæthwugu. C. P. 325. 1.

Nu to-merigen hæfð þis folc gemynt þæt hi heora lac him offrion. S. C. 462. 3.

Cf. ðæs on mergen S. C. 290. 18. &c. To dæg, to morgen reckon always from present time.

Other words after to denoting "time when" are rare. The following are all the instances observed :

gif ðæt underfangne andgit to ryhtre tide bið forðbroht. C. P. 367. 11.
So : to tide 459. 12, to ðam timan Chron. 41. 8. (f), to ðam ylcan timan 135. 37. (f'), to ðysan timan 94. 13 ([a])—all late.

& ða æfter ðam, on ðam ilcan geare, to gangdagum, he het atimbran ða burg æt Wigingamere Chron. 194. 7. (a). So : to Omnium Sanctorum 200. 17. (a); to Sce. Michaelæ tide (acde., mæssan b.) 88. 6.

ða clypode Herodes ða ðry tungelwitegan on sundorspræce, and geornlice hi befran to hwilces timan se steorra him ærest æteowde. S. C. 78. 18.
ealne weg hi æton æne on dæg, & þæt wæs to æfennes. Bo. 48. 8 (B).

The date seems to be less definitely given with to than with on; to here = "towards," "about."

2. Time how long. Very rare.

To + dat. or gen. sets the further limit of time—"until"—or gives the period of duration—"for a while."

a. "Until."

... þæt heo py feorðan wicdæge & ðy syxtan fæston to nones (ad nonam) B. 162. 11. So : to æfenes (ad vesperam). B. 232. 1.

& he ðær wunode to his ende. Chron. 45. 24. (e).

si þe lof & wylder nu a a a to worulde buton æghwilcum ende. Bo. 260. 15 (B).

One instance of instr. is noted : Nis hit fear to ðon (i. e. to the time of lauds). B. 348. 15.

b. Period during which :

Ða liefde he him ðone gielp to sumre hwile, & forbead ðæt yfel. C. P. 457. 33. So : to suiðe scortre hwile. C. P. 255. 10.

Swa ðonne ðis monna lif to medmiclum fæce ætyweð; hwæt ðær fore-gange, oððe hwæt þær æfterfylige, we ne cunnun. (ad modicum apparet.) B. 136. 5. So : to tide (ad tempus) 406. 14, to medmicelre tide (ad breve tempus) 440. 18.

Æfter ðissum hi ða geweredon to sumre tide wið Peohtum (inito ad tempus fœdere), B. 52. 19, is obscure. Does it mean "for a while" or "at a certain time" ?

Se Ælmihtiga God geðafað pam arleasan Antecriste to wyrçenne tacna, and wundra, and ehtnyse, to feorðan healfan geare. S. C. 4. 31. So : to lytelre hwile 64. 14, to langum fyrste 374. 11, 388. 18.

A peculiar construction appears in the Chronicle for the years 913-924, in the three best MSS. (abc.), (and occasionally in (d.), not in (ef.)); viz. foran to = before, of time only :

Her wearð Ecgbriht . . . ofslegen foran to middansumera, on XVI. Kl. Iul. Chron. 190. 30. (bc).

So : foran to middum sumera 192. 30. (a), 196. 16. (a); foran to middan wintra 186. 36. (bc); foran to Eastron 194. 2. (a), foran to hlafmæssan 190. 39. (bcd), 186. 29. (bc); foran to Martines mæssan 190. 19. (abd) (c. has æt-foran), 192. 23.

COMPOUNDS.

To forms compounds with adverbs, and these compounds occasionally serve as prepositions, i. e. take a case. So to eacan, to geanes, toward. Togeanes and to eacan always take the dat.; toward is uncertain of its regimen, being followed by gen., dat. and even acc.:

. . . Ða ðe gað on ryhtne weg toward ðæs hefonrices. C. P. 59. 19.

Ðonne ærnað hy ealle toward ðam feo. O. 20. 36.

Ðæt land . . . Ðæt hie toward wæron. O. 202. 3.

The following seems rather an instance of to + gen. than of a preposition tomiddes :

Ða he hiene tomiddes ðæs westennes hæfde gelædd (in deserta perductus). O. 286. 17.

In(n) shows various degrees of closeness in composition with to :

Ðonne he tiehð his heafod in to him. C. P. 241. 21.

& (scl. he) hæfde ealle ða geatu forworht inn (bc., in ad.) to him. Chron. 178. 29. (abcd).

Ðy læs hie on hwylc hus to him in eodan (ad se introirent). B. 58. 21.

& he eode in to ðam biscope & hine grette (intravit ac saluauit episcopum). B. 398. 6.

Ic gegaderige in to þe (i. e. Noe) of deorcynne, and of fugelcynne symble gemacan, þæt hi eft to fostre beon. S. C. 20. 34.

Ðonne orn he eft innto ðæm temple. C. P. 103. 4.

Hannibal gefeaht wið Sempronius ðone consul on Italam, & hiene bedraf into Romebyrig. O. 200. 6.

Her hiene bestæl se here into Werham Wesseaxna fierde. Chron. 144. 19. (abcde).

Eft, æt sumum sæle hine gelæhte an næddre be ðam fingre, ac he ascoc hi into byrnendum fyre, and he ðæs ættres nan ðing ne gefredde. S. C. 574. 16.

Into, the definite compound with the value of modern "into," is especially frequent in Ælfric, where it helps supply the place of the vanishing construction "on + acc. of that which contains." See p. 5.

FOR AND FORE.

For and fore, distinct in Gothic (faür + acc. = "for," faüra + dat. = "before") are confused in Ags., especially in Bede. In the other texts read for this work, though distinction of meaning is not firmly held to, there is a distinction in syntactical function: for is the preferred form, in most of the categories, for the preposition proper, immediately preceding its case, while fore is always used when the particle is removed from its case and more closely united with the verb.

For, fore takes the acc., dat. and instr. cases. The categories for the acc. are fairly regular and well defined; those for the dat. are less strict, so that we sometimes find a dat. where we should expect an acc.—but not an acc. where the meaning calls for a dat. Dat. for acc. is especially frequent in Bede and Ælfric. The instr. is rarely found except in the conjunctive phrases forðy (ðe), forðon (ðe).

I. FOR, FORE + ACC.

1. For, fore + acc. = over, in authority:

Hu ðæt mod ðætte wilnað for oðre beon lihð him selfum. C. P. 55. 14.
So: II. 13, 195. 12.

... Ða ... Ðe fore oðre beon sculan. C. P. 195. 16, 20.

But when the particle is prefixed to the verb (always in the form fore) the case is dat.:

Ða Ðe oðrum fore beoð. C. P. 103. 20. So: 139. 16, 193. 23.

& he monig ger ðære ilcan ðeode fore wæs. B. 168. 35. So commonly in Bede, translating præ esse.

Note. Fore appears once in this meaning followed by the dat.: ealle Ða Ðe fore oðrum beon sculon. C. P. 107. 23. cf. for, fore + dat. 1.

2. For (never fore) + acc. of what a thing is counted, reckoned to be :

ðæt he him gename ane iserne hearstepannan, & sette betweoh hine & ða burg for iserne weall. C. P. 161. 8.

Hie wilniað ðæt hie mon hæbbe for ða betstan & ða halgestan. C. P. 135. 20.

hwæðer nu god hlisa & forewærnes seo for nauht to tellenne? nese, nese. Bo. 86. 18.

Wite ðu for soð, pæt . . . Bo. 46. 16.

Cwædon heo, ðæt heo nænig pyssa don wolde, ne hine for ærcebiscop habban wolden. B. 102. 17.

he wæs gestæned oð deað, swa pæt ða ehteras hine for deadne leton. S. C. 392. 4.

And menn us wurðiað for godas, þonne we soðlice deoflu sind. S. C. 462. 28.

3. For, fore + acc. = instead of, in the place of:

ðæt he gesette oðre for hine to demenne betweox ðam folce ymbe hira gefita. C. P. 131. 15.

ða sende him mon ane blace hacelan angean, him on bismar, for triumpfan. O. 234. 22.

se foresprecena wer for hine in biscophade wæs gecoren. B. 336. 11. So 118. 26, 144. 8, 146. 14, 220. 17, 246. 15, 298. 26,—all from Lat. pro + abl.

Micel truwa hwearftlode on Petres heortan; he ana spræc for ealne ðone heap, "We forleton ealle ðing." S. C. 394. 1.

ac sume naman synd gehatene monoptota, . . . and se an casus gæð for ealle ða oðre: nequam manful. Ælf. Gr. 89. 5.

Fore in this sense is found only in Bede, where however the dat. is more usual than the acc. (see for, fore + dat. 5):

ond Theodor biscop fore hine gehalgode Hædde to biscope in Lundencaestre (pro eo). B. 298. 6. So 448. 9.

4. For, fore + acc. = in behalf of:

gebiddað for ða ðe eower ehtað & eow lað doð. C. P. 222. 17.

gif ðu hwæt gehatst for ðinne freond, ðonne hafas ðu ðin wed geseald. C. P. 193. 3.

& sio hond sceal wyrcean for ða wambe. C. P. 233. 9.

ðæt hi sceolden mid monnum for hie heora godum blotan. O. 184. 5.

ic wat pæt pu naht ne forslawodest pæt pu ðin agen feorh for hine ne sealdest. Bo. 28. 15 (B).

ðæt heo scoldon for heora compweorod gebiddan. B. 102. 33.

ðæt he scoldon for hine ðingian & for sibbe his ðeode (pro pace gentis only). B. 236. 26.

ðæt he mec ofsligene talað & for mec gelomlice mæssan deð (pro me). B. 328. 11.

þam spedigum gedafenað þæt he spende and dæle ; ðam wædlan gedafenað þæt he gebidde for ðane dælere. S. C. 256. 33.

Except in Bede, fore in this sense appears only in composition with the verb, and the pronoun (nouns do not appear) is in the dat.:

þæt mon helfe (Cott.; helpe B.) þæs unscyldgan, & him foreðingie. Bo. 210. 4.

ðæt he to ðæm untruman men ineode & him fore gebæde (pro illo). B. 396. 23.

He sceal him fore-gebidan, þæt God gehealde þa strangan, and gehæle ða untruman. S. C. 240. 7.

But Bede, besides the regular construction as in the last example but one, shows the acc. preceding the particle, and the dat. after it :

ða dyde he swa : gebæd heo fore & heo gebletsade (benedicans illos). B. 200. 1.

ond (scil. Æðelwald) wæs gebiddende fore usse hælo & for ussum life (pro nostra vita et salute). B. 386. 10.

Cf. also for, fore + dat. 3.

Rare and special usages.

5. For + acc. = "in comparison with" in Bo. :

Eala þæt hit is micel cræft þæs modes for þone lichoman ! Bo. 196. 11. (B.).

... eowerne hlisan ungemetlice to brædanne ofer swelcne cavertun swelce þæt is ðætte bugiað ðisse worulde, fulneah swilce an prica for ðæt oðer. Bo. 62. 20 (B)—seems corrupt.

6. For (once), fore (once) + acc. = in, into, the presence of :

forðon he oft ær for hine (i. e. ðone biscop) cuom & his ælmessan feng. (ante illum venire). B. 388. 16.

& hine eaðmodlice on eorðan astreahte fore ðone biscop (no Lat.). B. 266. 21.

7. foregan "precede" appears in Bede with the acc.—perhaps due to the Latin :

þa wæron ða Cristes þeowe utgongende of cirican to byrgenne þara broðra, þa ðe heo of þissum leohte foreodon (qui eas ex hac luce præceserant). B. 284. 11.

8. For + acc. of cause (cf. for, fore + dat. 2.) is noted once in the texts read :

sua oft sua we ure hand doð to urum muðe for giefernesse ofergemet. C. P. 313. 14.

Notes. 1. The following seems to be a case of for instead of fore in composition: Heo ða for-arn ðam folce, and genealæhte to þære byrgene mid woþe S. C. 566. 11; but in view of the fact that for, the preposition, does not elsewhere appear in composition except in the form fore, I am inclined to think that for is here the inseparable prefix, and that forarn = "outran."

2. The meaning of fore in the following is uncertain—possibly "in the presence of," more probably "because of": Sume gedwalmenn cwædon, þæt þæt heafod sceolde ablawan ðæs cyninges wif Herodiaden, ðe he fore acweald wæs, swa þæt heo ferde mid windum geond ealle woruld. S. C. 486. 6.

3. Also in the following: þæt hehste good sie . . . þæt þing þe mon eall god fore deð. Bo. 142. 36.

II. FOR, FORE + DAT. AND INSTR.

This preposition with the dat. has two distinct values; it means "before, in the presence of, sight of," and "because of." The former appears much less often than the latter use; its place is in part supplied by the compound forms beforan, toforan, ætforan. The latter is the ordinary function of this preposition in Ags. Through the notion of "for the sake of" this construction is occasionally (especially in Bede and Ælfric) confused with that of for, fore + acc. 4, and sometimes 3.

1. For, fore + dat. = before, in the sight (judgment) of; before, in front of:

ðonne bið hit suelc ðæt fægere hiw ðæs goldes sie onhworfen, & hit sie ablacod & forsewen for monna eagum. C. P. 135. 2.

ðæt he for ðisse worulde sie foresewen. C. P. 217. 7.

Eala wæran ða ancras swa trume & swa ðurhwuniende ge for Gode ge for worulde swa swa ðu segst. B. 30. 11. (B).

Wæs he se wer se fromesta & for Gode & for mannum micellic (coram deo et hominibus). B. 466. 6.

ða sona adrugode se stream & beah for his fotum (viam dedisse vesti-giis). B. 38. 17.

& wislice rædde oftost a symble for Gode & for weorulde ealre (d; eall e.) his ðeode. Chron. 219. 5. (de).

hi woldon hine gelæccan, and ahebban to cyninge, þæt he wære heora heafod for worulde, swa swa he was godcundlice. S. C. 162. 5.

forðan ðe hi sind gebroðru for Gode, se hlaford and se ðeowa. S. C. 378. 30.

Fore in this sense appears only in Bede (but see p. 64, Note 2.):

Cwæð he; Ne wede ic: ah ða wyrrestan ingewitnesse me ic geseo, & fore minum eagum hæbbe (præ oculis). B. 438. 20.

ðæt heo segn fore him bæron æt gefeohte (ante illum). B. 144. 31.

ða todælde se engel eft ðone leg ðæs fyres fore him (no Lat.) 214. 28.

Fore appears to form compounds with the idea of precedence or superiority, but not of simple presence.

2. For, fore of cause or reason.

For + dat. (or instr., in certain phrases) is the ordinary means of expressing both cause and reason in Ags. Certain points require special notice, but general examples are given first.

for ðære genyhte ðæs flowendan welan he blissað. C. P. 55. 8.

ðonne he for Godes lufum and for Godes ege deð ðæt ðæt he deð. C. P. 169. 3.

. . . oððe hwy þæt is weorðe, & eft for ðære sunna scinan to his agnum gecynde weorðe? Bo. 216. 1 (B).

ða he for maran ældo ðone biscophad ðægnian ne meakte (præ maiore senectute). B. 404. 12.

ond sona for his (i. e. Cuðbryhtes) cyme ða wergan gastas ðonon onweg gewiton (ad adventum). B. 366. 11.

ðæt gelomp for wean & for yfelnesse ðara eardiendra ðær in ðære byrig (a malitia). B. 348. 30.

“Wa middangearde for æswicungum.” S. C. 514. 30.

Frequently with verbs of fearing, dreading, etc., and in negative sentences:

Oft eac ða unwaran lareowas for ege ne durren cleopian. C. P. 89. 11.

ðætte ða ðe him underðiedde sien him dyrren hira dieglan ðing for scome geandettan. C. P. 103. 21.

And ðeah þa heard-heortan Iudei noldon for eallum ðam tacnum pone soðan Scyppend tocnawan. S. C. 108. 22.

præ timore non audeo for ege ic ne dear. Ælf. Gr. 272. 7.

The instr. of nouns is rare (for pronouns, see 7.):

ðylæs he for ðy underfenge his eaðmodnesse forlæte. C. P. 23. 22. So 23. 24.

& for ðon gebode gewurdon fela martyra. O. 280. 19.

ic nat (for hwilcon B., . . . lce Cott.) dysige ge girdað þæt ge woldon eowerne naman tobrædan geond ealle eorðan. Bo. 64. 4.

swa ðæt he for ðy sare ne meakte furðon his hond to muðe gedon. B. 156. 19.

ond gelefde ðæt his eage for ðy fexe ðæs Godes weres . . . hraðe gehæled ware. B. 382. 31.

Fore in this sense is unusual—observed only in C. P. and B.:

hu se reccere sceal bion ðæm weldoendum monnum fore eaðmodnesse gefera. C. P. 13. 3.

ðætte reccere his godan weorc fore gielpen anum ne do, ac ma for Godes lufan. C. P. 13. 9.

His oðre geferan fore gelimplicum intingum hwurfon to cirican in ðæt mynster (pro) B. 262. 29. So: (pro) 76. 7, (propter) 154. 7, 216. 9, 284. 31, (ob) 176. 11, 190. 15, 446. 11, (ex . . . causa) 76. 31, (causa) 114. 32, (gratia) 270. 17.

But fore- in composition in all texts:

sua sua manegra cynna wyrta & grasu beoð gerad, sumu neat batigað fore, sumu cuelað. C. P. 173. 20.

ðyslic wæs syn, ðe se cyning fore ofslegen wæs (pro qua) B. 228. 5.

3. For, fore + dat. of reason is sometimes used where the relation is to our feeling rather than of purpose—"for the sake of" something to be attained by the act—; but such use of for for to is exceedingly rare, the two categories being as a rule kept quite distinct:

. . . giefra, ðe him God for monigra monna ðingum geaf, næs for hiera anra. C. P. 41. 22.

ðæt gewinn ðæt his fæder astealde he diegellice for ðæm V. gear scipa worhte, ond fultum gegaderode. O. 78. 32.

ælc wyrd para þe to þæm yflum cymð, cymð for ðæm twæm þingum (i. e. either for punishment or for warning) Bo. 236. 6.

he ðær gehet for wegferendra gecelnisse stapolas asettingan (obrefrigerium) B. 144. 27.

ac for leornunge haligra gewreota he was micelre tide in Ibernia Scotta ealonde wuniende (legendarum gratia scripturarum) B. 168. 28.

Tempus accidit verbo tid gelimpð worde for getacnunge mislicra dæda.
Ælf. Gr. 123. 12.

Ac we habbað nu micle maran endebyrdnesse þære Cristes bec gesæd þonne ðis dægðerlice godspel behafð, for trymninge eowres geleafan.
S. C. 220. 26.

This extension is more frequent in Bede and Ælfric than elsewhere.

4. The notion "in behalf of" (see for, fore + acc. 4.), being so nearly identical with "for the sake of," is frequently rendered by for, fore + dat. instead of acc.:

ðæt ge meahton standan on minum gefeohte for Israhela folce. C. P.
 89. 19.

Deah we nu ofer ure mæð ðencen & smeagean, ðæt we dooð for Gode.
C. P. 101. 12.

ðonne for him mæssan sungene wæron (pro eo) B. 20. 18.

fore again only in Bede:

 wundor) gefremde wæs (propter quos et in quibus). B. 384. 11.

ðæt heo fore his gehælde ðæm ælmihtigan Gode ætgædre heora bene hwæt ic fore Cristes cneohtum . . . ðrowade & aræfnde (parvulis Christi).

B. 114. 22.

For, fore + dat. after verbs of praying is found only in Bede and Ælfric.

5. For + dat. of that in return for which something is given, for which return is made:

He ne sealde Gode nanne metsceat for his saule, ne nænne geðingsceat wið his miltse. C. P. 339. 10.

ða brohton Romane ðone triumphan angean Pompeius mid micelre

(scl. Eadwine) ðoncunge dyde his Godum for ðære deahter, ðe him acenned wæs (pro nata sibi filia) B. 122. 29. So: ðonc secgan for (pro). B. 236. 21, 380. 17.

"Ðu earming, beorh ðe sylfum, and wyrç dædbote for ðære halgena blode, ðe ðu agute." S. C. 418. 35.

Heofonan rice wæs alæten þisum foresædum gebroðrum for heora nette and scipe. S. C. 580. 23.

Note. wið is the prep. commonly used in this sense. The notion of "reason" is present when for is used.

seo Cuðbriht geaf ðone abbote L punde ðærfore (i. e. for the land) Chron. 92. 15 (e), very late; observe the acc. of the article after geaf.

6. Bede shows often for, fore + dat. and Ælfric for + dat. = "instead of," "in the place of"; Ælfric even for + dat. = "reckoned," "held to be" (cf. for, fore + acc. 3 and 2):

Ðætte forðferdum Paulino ðam biscope Ithamar for him æt Hrofeceastre biscopsette onfeng (pro eo). B. 14. 28.

. . . ðætte, wundorlice gemete, for openre wunde & geomien dre . . . ða seo ðynneste dolgswæð & seo læsseste æteawde (pro aperto et hiante vulnere). B. 322. 10.

For nahte he tealde ænig ðing to biddenne buton gesihðe. S. C. 156. 21.

Fore again only in Bede:

Gegyrewað ðone lichoman mid neowum bræglum fore ðam ðe ge ðær on noman (pro his). B. 376. 20.

se biscop . . . , se ðe fore Cuðbryhte gehalgod beon sceolde (pro Cudbercto) B. 374. 8. So 140. 16, 248. 28, 458. 14—all from Lat. pro.

7. The dat. (ðæm) and both forms of the instr. (ðon, ðy) are used with for (never fore) to form a conjunctive phrase of reason, or, rarely, of purpose. The resultant forms are forðæm (ðe), forðon (ðe), forðy (ðe).

a. Forðæm (ðe), forðon (ðe) = "because," followed by clause of reason:

ond ða swiðe lytle forme ðara boca wiston, forðæmðe hie hiora nan wuht ongiotan ne meahton, forðæmðe hie næron on hiora agen geðioðe awritene. C. P. 5. 11.

para wæron syx stælhranas, ða beoð swyðe dyre mid Finnum, for ðæm hy foð þa wildan hranas mid. O. 18. 12.

Sio gitsung þa & ða gewin wæron grimlicran þonne hy nu syn, for ðon hy hyre nane bysene ær ne cuðan swa men nu witon, ac on bilwitnesse hyra lif alyfdon. O. 30. 23.

Bede uses almost exclusively for ðon:

Ac forðon missenlice intingan & unæmtan oft gelimpað, licade us eallum gemænlice þætte in Agustus Kalende æne siða on gere seonoð gesonmode in stowe, seo is nemned Clofeshoh. B. 278. 24.

Ælfric uses the form forðan ðe most often:

... forðan ðe ðu eart rihtwis and me becweme. S. C. 20. 30.

but forði þæt sometimes, apparently as a more emphatic form, "for this reason (purpose) that":

þa cwæð se Hælend, þæt he nære for his agenum synnum, ne for his maga, blind geboren, ac for ði þæt Godes wundor purh hine geswutelod wære. S. C. 474. 5.

or when another clause is inserted between the conj. and its clause:

... þonne bið se fæder mara, and se sunu læssa. Hwi swa? Forði þonne se sunu wyxð, þonne ealdað se fæder. S. C. 278. 24.

and rihtwisra manna deað is deorwyrðe, forði ðonne hi geendiað ðis geswincfulle lif, beoð hi gebrohte to ðam ecan life. S. C. 218. 20.

sometimes, also, in the same position in which forðan (ðe) is commonly found:

Se getigeda assa and his fola getacniað twa folc, þæt is Iudeisc and hæðen: Ic cweðe, hæðen, forði þe eal mennisc was ða-gyt wunigende on hæðenscipe, buton þam anum Iudeiscan folce. S. C. 206. 32. So 276. 31, 286. 11, 322. 21.

b. "Therefore," referring to some statement already made, is commonly expressed by for þy in all texts except Bede, which again uses forðon:

Ne ofermodgiað ða scirmenn na forðy. C. P. 109. 18.

& se nimð pone læstan dæl se nyhst þæm tune þæt feoh gearneð. &

ponne rideð alc hys wegese mid ðan feo, & hyt motan habban eall; & for ðy ðær beoð þa swifitan hors ungefoge dyre. O. 21. 5.

and hu mæg se geleafa beon forðgenge, gif seo lar and ða lareowas ateor-jað? is nu for ði godes þeowum and mynstermannum georne to warnigenne, pæt seo halige lar on urum dagum ne acolige oððe ateorige. Ælf. Gr. 3. 9.

þæs biscopese lif & drohtunge in biscopphade ge ær biscopphade in sægd pætte ware ðæt halgeste, swa swa eac swylce æfter mid heofonlicra mægena tacnum gecyðed wæs. Ond forðon seorpon longe his horsbær, þe hine mon untrumne on bær, wæs from his discipulum gehealden; & monige untrume . . . þær æt hælo onfengon. B. 282. 3. So 346. 20, 354. 25, etc., etc.

Bo. uses also forðæm in this sense:

þa felgan bioð fyrrest þære eaxe, forðæm hi faroð ungeredlicost; sio nafu færð neaxst ðære eaxe, forðy hio færð gesundlicost. Bo. 222. 21.

and Ælfric ði without preposition, rarely:

God is ure Fæder, þi we sceolon ealle beon gebroðru on Gode. S. C. 260. 28. So 82. 30.

c. The interrogative "why" is rendered by hwý, forhwý, forhwon (the last being the usual form in Bede):

hwi ne hwearfast ðu eac mid him? Bo. 18. 7. (B).

. . . & for hwý se goda God læte ænig yfel beon. Bo. xviii. 2. (B).

cur hwi, quare for hwi, quam ob rem for hwi oððe for ði. Ælf. Gr. 231. 1c.

forhwý, C. P. 451. 6; for hwi, O. 54. 33.

. . . & hine frignan, forhwon hine mon gebindan ne meakte (quare). B. 328. 5.

d. The correlatives (1) "because . . . , therefore," (2) "for this reason . . . , because . . . ," show the utmost variety of form, especially in Bo., where they are very frequent, from the argumentative nature of the work:

(1) forðy ðe . . . , forðy . . . , Bo. 98. 30.

forðæm . . . , forðæm . . . , 240. 28 (Cott.).

forðæm . . . , forði . . . , 240. 28 (B.).

(2) forþi . . . , forþy . . . , 70. 1, 122. 29, 214. 19 (B.), 246. 29 (Cott.; Ac . . . forði . . . B.).

forðæm . . . , forðæm þe . . . , 108. 31 (B).

forðæm . . . , forðy . . . , 126. 15.

forði . . . , þy læs (neg. sent.) 234. 8.

forðæm . . . , þe . . . , 230. 24.

8. For + dat. in time phrases (observed only in Ælfric).

a. For + dat. of time (dæg, gear) = ". . . ago"; cf. German vor.

swa swa hit wæs gedon on Angelcynne nu for anum feawum gearum. Ælf. Gr. 3. 12. So S. C. 458. 7.

Min Drihten for feawum dagum me geswutelode þæt ic sceolde mid pysre ðrowunge his fotswaðum fyllian. S. C. 382. 16. So 104. 1.

b. In the following sentences the beginning of the modern idiom : "for two years," etc., is apparent, though they were still doubtless phrases of "purpose," "interest," to Ælfric :

Witodlice se ðe nane brocunge for ðisum life ne ðrowað, he færð to ðrowunge. S. C. 472. 21. ("in this life" Thorpe).

He (i. e. se hyra) cepð þara sceatta, and blissað on ðam wurðmynte, and hæfð his mede for ðisum life, and bið bescyred þære ecan mede. S. C. 240. 21.

... forðan ðe oft getimað yfelum teala for life. S. C. 332. 15.

In one passage indeed the Latin acc. of duration is rendered by for :

biennium for twam gearum oððe twegra geara fyrst. Ælf. Gr. 287. 15.

COMPOUNDS.

The adverb foran combines with the prepositions on, to, æt, and be to form compound prepositions, taking for the most part the dat. case. Onforan, however, is followed by the acc. winter in the Chronicle, 170. 23. (abcd), 172. 17. (a). Toforan in Bo. and Ælfric denotes precedence and preference :

þæt ic mæg þe inweardlice lufian foron eallum þingum mid clænum geðance. Bo. 260. 12 (B).

þæt he sy toforan oðrum mannum purh his glencge getealde. S. C. 328. 28.

præ me toforan me, præ omnibus toforan eallum. Ælf. Gr. 276. 2.

Ætforan has a considerable range of uses :

1. In the presence of :

coram vobis stat ætforan eow he stent. Ælf. Gr. 271. 16.

and Crist hine gehælde ætforan gesihðe ealles þæs werodes. S. C. 154. 3

Also with verbs of motion :

Ne glad he (i. e. se steorra) ealne weig him ætforan, ac syððan hi comon to Judeiscum earde, syððan he was heora latteow, oð þæt he bufan Cristes gesthuse ætstod. S. C. 108. 32.

2. Before, of place :

þa gesawon hi ætforan ðære cyrcan norð-dura, on ðam marmanstane, swilce mannes foðlæsta fæstlice on ðam stane geðyde. S. C. 506. 11.

3. Before, in a series :

ac hi habbað ealle sceortne i on sopinum ætforan þam -tum. Æl. Gr. 193. 7.

4. Before, above, of preference :

ac ðeah he geendebyrde pone unspedigān fiscere ætforan ðam rican casere. S. C. 578. 10.

5. Before, in time :

... and be ðam manega bec setton, ða ðe we nu oferrædað æt Godes ðeowdome ætforan his gebyrdtide, him to wurðmynte. S. C. 600. 13.
ætforan Martines mæssan. Chron. 191. 19. (c.) (foran to abd.).

Beforan has all of these meanings except "before in time":

beforan ðam temple stod æren ceac. C. P. 105. 1.

Seo menigu þe eode beforan ðam Hælende. S. C. 156. 10.

sua manegra wieta hie beoð wyrðe beforan ðam oðrum sua sua he monna on won gebrohte. C. P. 191. 7.

The closeness in meaning of these -foran compounds to one another is well illustrated by the following: He (i. e. Iohannes se Fulluhtere) wæs asend toforan Drihtne, swa swa se dægsteorra gæð beforan ðære sunnan, swa swa bydel ætforan demen, swa seo Ealde Gecyðnys ætforan ðære Niwan. S. C. 354. 33.

SUMMARY.

A. For versus fore.

1. Fore is the regular form, whatever the meaning, when the prep. does not immediately precede its case.

2. Fore before its case occurs only in C. P. (fore + acc. 1., + dat. 1.) and in Bede (in all categories except for + acc. 2. and for + dat. 7.). Except for this limitation of fore, the two forms seem not to be distinguished in Bede.

B. Cases.

1. Acc. gives place to dat. when the prep. does not precede its case,—except in Bede. Cf. in, on, pp. 9 ff.

2. Dat. appears often instead of acc. 4. (in C. P., B. and Ælf.—see p. 67), less often for acc. 3. (B. and Ælf.); for acc. 2. only in Ælfric.

3. Acc. for dat. or instr. of cause does not occur; for giefernesse ofergemet. C. P. 313. 14, is the only instance.

Note. The intensive adverb for is sometimes liable to confusion with the preposition. So in the sentence :

þu meah witan be manegum þingum þæt þæt gecynd is swiðe micel : is þæt for micel gecynd ðæt urum lichoman cymð eall his mægen of ðam mete þe we þiggað. Bo. 150. 33.

Fox translates for micel gecynd "through mighty nature," i. e. for + acc. of cause, which does not occur. The meaning of the passage is: "that is (an instance of the) very great power of nature, that &c." Cf. the following:

is pæt ponne for dyslic geswinc pæt ge winnað eowre woruld to don pæt ge wilniað eowerne hlisan ungemetlice to brædanne ofer swelcne cafertun. Bo. 62. 17.

& ðeah hi for micel god ne don, hi wilniað ðæt hi micel ðyncen. C. P. 439. 35.

ÆT.

The idea of approximate location—nearness, neighborhood—is at the base of all the values of æt. It is followed regularly by the dat., very rarely by the acc. case.

I. ÆT + DAT.

1. Æt denotes location less closely than in and on; that near which, by which, rather than that in or upon which. So it is used to give the place of a battle or other meeting, of a church or monastery, &c., &c.

He geseah ane hlædre standan æt him on eorðan. C. P. 101. 19.

he ne cuæð na ðæt ða gíemmas wæren forsceadne æfter ðam strætum, ac æt ðara stræta endum. C. P. 135. 17.

. . . pæt mon hehð ænne heafodbeag gyldenne æt sumes ærneweges ende. Bo. 188. 9.

þa ne wiste he hwæt he gefelde cealdes æt his sidan licgan; cunnode ða mid his hond & sohte, hwæt pæt wære (lateri adjacere). B. 156. 32.

Soðlice ða halgan apostolas wæron swilce culfran æt heora eh-ðyrlum, ðaða hi nan þing on ðisum middangearde ne gewilnodon, ac hi calle ðing bilewitlice sceawodon. S. C. 586. 1.

æt honda (ad manum) is exactly our modern "at hand":

ƿa sæt he æt beode, næfde ða æt honda hwær ðæt brohte lac gehealdan scolde; sende ða in his bosm. B. 156. 28. So 122. 20.

This is distinct from the æt hondum of 4.

a. Æt occurs rarely after verbs of motion:

Ic eow cleopode ær to me, ac ge me noldon æt cuman. C. P. 247. 21.

ðæt hie næfre noldon æt ham cuman ær hie ðæt gewrecen hæfden. O. 56. 19.

... ðæt hie gebrohten Romana consulas & heora witan æt heora agnum londe & him beforan drifen swa swa niedlingas. O. 122. 6.

& gesyndge windas ðurh ðone smyltestan usic æt londe gebrohte (ad). B. 386. 14.

b. Æt sometimes combines with proper nouns of place, so that the whole is treated as a name:

... ðam porte ðe mon hæt æt Hæðum. O. 19. 23.

... in ðære stowe ðe is geceged Æt Hwitan Ærne (quæ Candida Casa vocatur). B. 478. 27.

Wynerð hwearf to his mynstre, ƿæt is nemned æt Bearwe (dicitur Adbarvæ). B. 280. 27.

... on ðære stowe ðe ... genemned is æt Eamotum. Chron. 199. 34. (d).

Cf. M. H. G. ze: dâ zen Burgonden, so was ir lant genant, Niebelungen 5. 3. The phrase is not, however, really a noun; it appears to be so only with verbs of naming.

2. Æt introduces the occasion,—the activity, function, which marks the time or in which one is engaged. Æt is here scarcely distinguishable by definition from on in similar use. Cf. in, on + dat. I. 1. d.

se sacerd scyle onfon ðone suiðran bogh æt ðære of[f]runge. C. P. 81. 19.

hi secað . . . ðæt hie fyrrest hlynigen æt æfengieflum. C. P. 27. 7.

þa gelamp hit pæt æt ðam gyftum win wearð ateorod. S. C. 58. 9.

a. A further development of this value of æt appears in the (rare) use of æt = "in the matter of," "in regard to." Cf. in, on + dat. I. 7.

Oft mon bið suiðe wandigende æt ælcum weorce & suiðe lætræde. C. P. 149. 14.

(scl. hi) cwædon ðæt hie to raðe wolden fultumlease beon æt heora bearn-teamum, ða hi ðær swa longe ðohton to beonne. O. 56. 21.

gif ge æt ðissum ðreom ðingum me hyrsume beon willað (in tribus his). B. 102. 10.

wa ðam menn ðe oðerne æt his æhtum, oððe æt his feore beswicð. S. C. 516. 1.

þeah se reðe reafere us æt æhtum bereafige, oððe feores benæme . . . S. C. 576. 10.

b. In the following passage æt = against :

Nersis pæt oðer folc swa swiðe forseah, pæt he ascade, hwæt sceolde æt swa lytlum weorode mara fultum, buton þa ane þe him þær ær abolgen wæs on þæm ærran gefeohhte, pætte wæs on Merothonia þære dune. O. 80. 16.

3. Æt is used with certain words to form time-phrases. So always with cyrr, fruma, and in the phrase æt nichstan; in Ælfric also with sæl. More definite time is rendered by æt only in Bede, where dæg, neah, sumor, (but only when accompanied by the adj. mid) and Eastor, Pentecoste, occur after æt.

He mæg ðæt æt sumum cierre betan. C. P. 235. 24.

ðæt we æt ytemestan onfon sumne dæl bledsunge. C. P. 333. 1.

Ða bestælon hie hie ðeah nihtes upp æt sumum twam cirron. Chron. 190. 6. (abcd).

þa becom se apostol æt sumum sæle to ðære byrig Pergamum. S. C. 62. 24.

Wæs seo beorhtnes . . . mara, ðon sunnan leoht bið æt middan dæge (sol meridianus). B. 284. 16.

þa wæs æt midde neahthe, þa he wæccende wæs, þa ne wiste he hwæt he gefelde cealdes æt his sidan licgan (medio noctis tempore). B. 156. 30.

Eodon wiit suigiende, þes ðe me puhte & gesegn wæs, ongen norðeast rodor, swa swa sunnan upgong bið æt middum sumere (contra ortum solis solstitialem). B. 424. 2.

Ond (scl. heo) seldom in hatum baðum heo baðian wolde, buton ðam hyhstan symbelnessum & tidum æt Eastran & æt Pentecosten, (imminentibus sollennis . . . paschæ, pentecostes). B. 318. 17.

Seo wæs gefulwad ðy halgan dæge æt Pentecosten (die sancto pentecostes). B. 124. 5.

Bede's peculiarity here is evidently not due to the Latin.

4. Æt indicates the source—"at" and from which something springs or is received or obtained, as in our modern phrase "at his hands." Æt in this sense has however a much more extended use in Ags. than in mod. English. That this meaning of æt is only a special development of the place-meaning (see 1. and 2. above) is evident from the following passages, in which æt has the values of both "æt" and "from":

Ealle stærwriteras secgað ðæt Asiria rice æt Ninuse begunne, & Romana rice æt Procuse begunne (a Nino . . . a Proca). O. 60. 25.

Ða onfeng he him & nom æt fulwihte bæðe & æt ðæs biscopes honda ðære godcundan ðegnunge him to godsuna (de lavacro exeuntem). B. 168. 5.

hie ondrædað ðæt him derian mæge æt ðæm gielpe. C. P. 143. 23.

Æt appears in this sense after the following verbs in the texts read:

geaxian, gehieran, (ge)leornian, gelæred beon, witan;
(a)bidan, findan, onfon, underfon, begietan, geornian, gejec-
wilnian;

nan cristen mann ne sceal his hæle gefeccan buton æt ðam Ælmihtigan Scyppende. S. C. 470. 20.

a. Secan and wilnian (cf. to II. 3.) take æt or to without apparent difference of meaning:

Ðaða he wilnode lare æt Gode. C. P. 443. 31.

heo ða nænge cuðe onswaro findan meahhte, ðeah ðe heo georne sohte æt ðæm sweostrum. B. 284. 7.

b. Verbs compounded with æt in this sense take the dat.:

but sometimes the acc., the feeling for the compound as such having been lost.

5. A few exceptional uses of æt are assembled here.

b. Concerned in :

c. Means :

Swa swa ic nu æt feawum wordum secge (breviter). B. 206. 15.

II. ÆT + Acc.

The acc. after æt is very rare; in the texts read only the phrase æt ðysne andweardan dæg is found :

þæt ilce wæter æt ðysne ondweardan dæg eallum ðæm ðider cumendum his heofenlicu gifu genihtsumnesse ðegnað (usque ad hanc diem). B. 366. 21.
